Citizen aids crime fight

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record
Citizen action is highly valued by local law enforcement authorities, who beamed with pleasure Friday at the opportunity to salute Joseph L. Kremers of the 700 block of Myrtle Avenue.

Partly because of timely help by Kremers, police quickly solved the Halloween night armed robbery of the Farm Fresh milk and food store at 2928 Namecki Road.

Delmar E. Chisaco, 40, DeSoto, Mo., has just been sentenced by Circuit Judge A. A. Matolesian to serve 30 years behind Illinois prison bars as a result of the 7:19 p.m., Oct. 31, 1981, holdup.

Judge Matolesian earlier ordered Gary W. Crone, 32, of 1444 Grand Ave., to serve seven years in a state penitentiary for his role in the Farm Fresh robbery.

Those who assembled for Friday's ceremony were Kremers and his wife Sharon, Police Chief Ronald J. Velzer, Assistant Police Chief George C. Teller and Alderman Warren Decatur.

Decatur heads the crime prevention committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. A Chamber recognition certificate was awarded to the local citizen for his assistance in frustrating and capturing the robbers. A letter by Teller on behalf of the Granite City police operations bureau, with Chief Velzer's approving signature added to the assistant chief's signature, told Kremers:

GC man saved by two citizens

"God told me today if I did not kill someone I would die," Jack Petty is quoted as saying after he was thwarted in his attack on a Granite City man, Joseph Molnar, 77, shortly after 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Two citizens came to the elderly man's rescue on the sidewalk in front of 721 Locust St. in downtown St. Louis.

Petty, 34, St. Louis, was taken into custody by St. Louis police as part of their investigation of the assault. Molnar, who resides in the 2000 block of Lee Street, was treated at the St. Louis City Hospital for cuts about "A common problem confronting law enforcement officers throughout the country is failure on the part of our citizenry in reporting crimes to the police when they occur.

"Such was the case in New York City when residents in a large apartment complex watched from their windows while a young lady was raped and then beaten to death; no one bothered to call the police.

"Members of the Granite City police department wish to thank you for your cooperation in the Oct. 31, 1981, case.

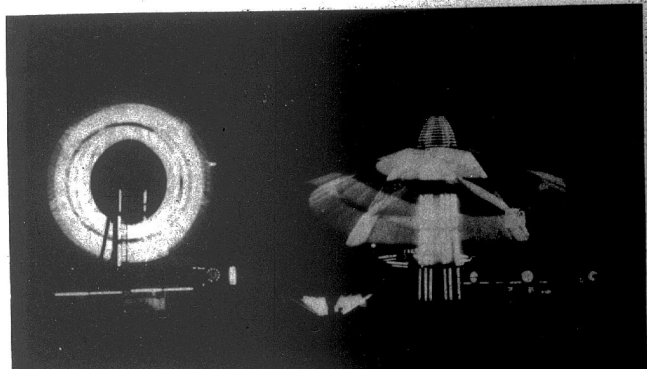

"Although you were accompanied by your wife, Sharon, and your two small children, upon learning about the robbery from an employee, Brian Gallas—who had edited the store, stating the store had just been robbed and giving a description of the suspect—you gave chase on foot.

"You chased a person you had seen leave the store of a like description and carrying a large brown paper bag—and you obtained the automobile license registration, LOY 177, Illinois 1981.

"Your possession of a flashlight, enabling you to view that number, left no doubt as to its authenticity.

"You also gave officers a description

Search warrant plan to inspect homes draws opposition

by DONNA KIMBERO
of the Press-Record
How to shape a housing ordinance to upgrade living conditions and to resolve most objections to it was the topic of the Granite City Board of Realtors and Alderman Paul Fisk last week.

With an ordinance currently being prepared, one realtor urged that it be made subject to a referendum, and another assailed the inclusion of search warrant procedures, under which the city could view both good and bad housing.

"Communication is the key between governmental bodies and the public to accumulate input for a particular project or program of interest to area residents. Currently, communication is essential for the formulation of a minimum housing code," Fisk told the Realtors' luncheon gathering. He explained that an existing city law has no enforcement powers, and that due to this lack he is drawing up a similar instrument. He said he is hopeful that it will be acceptable to all and will eliminate the blight that always threatens to creep across the seven wards.

"I could have slipped this ordinance through but it would not have been one the city or the people could live with," the ordinance chairman commented.

Realtor Carl Hoffman responded, "I would hate to think you would 'slip' through any ordinance, and I also do not like to think that one man on the council would have that much power." Realtor Bernard Royce said, "The proposed ordinance that you want to present to the council could put a hardship on people living on a taxed income who have all their money invested in a piece of property and decide to sell it and retire to another area.

"I strongly suggest you appoint one or more realtors to your committee, since we are actively involved in this segment of business and have many ideas on preparing a housing code for this city."

The consensus was that some properties are in bad condition, but not all, and that something less than 100 percent application should be the goal. Real estate professionals present conceded that city inspectors have a duty to check and inspect specific structures for health and safety factors. But an overall ordinance aimed at all property would be unfair to home owners, they contended.

Fisk told the assembled realtors that his guidelines are from the ordinance adopted by Alton.

This statement did not appear to impress or persuade the realtors, several of whom said they are not interested in what Alton officials approved, but rather what should be instituted for Granite City and surrounding areas.

Bob Barton, president, entered the discussion and said he does not want to see a housing ordinance enacted to create revenue for the city. Many governmental bodies mismanage the money they do have and fail to remedy the ills of their communities, he remarked.

Property taxes continue to climb as real estate sale prices increase, he asserted. Too little thought is given to decreasing the taxes on a dwelling, although it remains in the same or a lesser condition, he added.

"Realtors cannot sell substandard property. If they did, their license with the state would be in jeopardy and they would have to appear before the state board to prove they were not in error," Barton continued.

"If the state board did not agree with them, their licenses could be revoked. Therefore, we have a commitment to either inform the seller that certain existing repairs must be made before a sale can be consummated, or explain to the buyer about the problems. Only if both agree can we let that person assume the responsibility."

Barton asked Fisk, "What revenue will the city gain with the new occupancy permits?" The alderman replied that the city will only gain over the years as substandard property is repaired and put back on the tax rolls.

Hoffman said, "At the present time, Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration loans will not be approved until property is repaired to meet the standards set by their offices."

"This ordinance would restrict all sales. I always suggest that the buyer be informed of needed repairs and that the owner lower the price of a house to compensate for work needing to be done. Let's leave this between the two parties instead of getting the city involved."

Fisk said, "The buyer does not have to complete this type of work immediately, unless there is a safety

Madison and St. Clair counties, together with 12 adjacent counties, are on the verge of an economic resurgence if they can "get their act together" to develop and promote Southwestern Illinois, Earl Larson told the Granite City Rotary prayer breakfast gathering last week.

President of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Larson urged strong local support of a new economic development group which will be partly funded by SIUE and the Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

Statistical data and other information vital to attract new employers are either lacking or not in the necessary form, the speaker said.

Carl A. Ranft, Tri-City Regional Port manager, agreed with his assertion, adding that the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs thus far has not assimilated local data bases into its records and presentations.

Larson said the proposed organization, which hopes to obtain financial contributions from firms and agencies within the 14 counties, is needed to improve the chances of obtaining new industries and jobs.

Despite the present lack of usable promotional materials, the Southwestern portion of the state has much to offer and may be on the brink of a new era of growth and progress, the university president told the breakfast audience.

Goals of a Southwestern economic development corporation are to include:

—Cooperation with local community development groups to seek "more jobs for more people."

—Establishment of a sense of identity in the region; encouragement of

Deny Stoller probation

U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman last week at Springfield rejected a probation request from Leland Stoller, the Tennessee businessman who was convicted along with former Sheriff John Maera and Capt. John Cooper.

Stoller was found guilty, in a 1979 federal trial at Alton, of involvement in a kickback scheme during the 1970s. The judge ordered him to begin serving his prison term May 14.

While asserting that "I can't grant probation in this kind of case," Ackerman withheld ruling on whether to reduce the three-year sentence he originally imposed on Stoller. He said he will study it and reflect on the length of time in prison.

Commenting that he finds it "extremely difficult to impose the proper sentence" on Stoller, the judge said he is pulled in two directions:

1. The bribing of a public official is "a serious offense."

2. But the complete facts on

Stoller's participation are "difficult to discern from the record."

The trial brought out that kickbacks were paid from funds raised by Stoller's company for the now-defunct Madison County Deputy Sheriff Association.

Stoller denied in his testimony that he provided any bribe payments. He had promoted dances, entertainment programs and other projects.

The motion to grant probation or to reduce his sentence was opposed last week by U.S. Attorney Gerald Fines, prosecutor of the trio and others indicted in the investigation of the sheriff department.

Fines argued that Stoller profited by receiving a monopoly on fund activities. Bribes were given and, in return, the department was able to keep complaints about money-raising methods under control, the federal attorney contended.

Stoller and his wife, well-known country and western vocalist Cristy Lane, took the witness stand at last

Mayors defend local tax 'turf'

The executive board of the Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors of Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties has met with area legislators in Springfield to discuss five major problems facing member municipalities.

The meeting, co-sponsored by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC), focused on local taxation issues, possible reduction of utility rates through election of the Illinois Commerce Commission, expanded use of Illinois coal, state handling of federal block grants, and state funding for SIMAPC.

The mayors vigorously defended their local-taxation "turf."

Mayor Richard Brauer of Belleville asked the legislators to withhold support of legislation that would make piecemeal changes in the taxing authority of municipalities.

He urged that the General Assembly push for the creation of a property tax study commission that would be charged with making a thorough analysis of local taxation issues, and recommending comprehensive solutions to the problems identified.

Brauer recommended that any such commission that is appointed include adequate representation of all types of taxing bodies from all areas of Illinois. He said it should pay particular attention to the methods used to distribute any funds raised through alternatives to the property tax for local governments.

The mayors' group also asked legislators to support an increase in the motor fuel tax, and to change that tax to make it a percentage of the full price—with at least a portion of the increased tax receipts being earmarked for use by municipalities.

The issue of the election of members of the Illinois Commerce Commission

Gary Schneider is promoted to editor

Gary R. Schneider, 36, of Granite City, has been named editor of the Press-Record and is announced yesterday by Paul G. Halbert, general manager.

Schneider, a veteran of 12 years on the Press-Record news staff and of 16 years in the news industry, replaces Harry A. Barnes of O'Fallon, who died April 18, following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Barnes served as editor since 1960, offering expertise gathered during his 52-year newspaper career.

Schneider, who has been serving as managing editor since December, 1980, started his career in 1968 as a radio announcer and newsmen with WEIC AM and FM radio in Charleston, Ill., while attending Eastern Illinois University. He graduated from EIU with a bachelor's degree in speech and English in 1970.

He was employed by WTHI Television in Terre Haute, Ind., as an announcer and news director and by the daily Terre Haute Tribune-

New school payroll plan

The Granite City School Board decided last week to establish a zero-balance payroll checking account to be used for the educational, building fund and joint agreement (special education) payrolls.

Transfers from the current interest-bearing general checking accounts or investments will be made before the close of banking business each day, in an amount sufficient to cover the checks returned for payment.

"This working bank account will not be used to carry any balance, in order to maintain our current utilization of cash investments," Director of Finance Norman S. Owca said.

"The first result of establishing this account will be material cost savings when receiving bids. We have combined the different type payroll check quantities into one common form and quantity amount."

"Consequently, this will lead into labor saving in the preparation and tabulation of bids, and in bank reconciliations."

"In fact, a bank reconciliation in this payroll account is unnecessary, since the daily deposit exactly equals the daily disbursements. Our main concern will be to keep a list of the numbers of the outstanding checks," Owca noted.

"The last result is that our current principal checking accounts will be used for bill payments only."

"It will be more controlled, and operated as closely as possible to a zero-balance account."

"A closer maximum cash flow can be operated because deposits from investments can be written and timed better, based on the section of the country to which the disbursement was sent."

Consumers warned of mail fraud

With April 25 to May 1 designated as Consumer Protection Week, the Postal Service is alerting American consumers to various mail frauds which, according to Postmaster General William F. Bolger, resulted in over 200,000 complaints during the last fiscal year.

Work-at-home schemes, investment in non-existent energy resources, and "cures" for a variety of illnesses are some of the more common examples of mail fraud and false representation, he said.

"Bulky room" approaches to high-pressure telephone sales have spread from false billing schemes to travel and investment schemes, raising the number of investigations by postal inspectors by 50 percent over the last 12 months, Bolger noted.

The Postal Service offers tips on how to avoid "consumer rip-off" in a series of information materials available at any post office.

Student public relations group

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville students who are interested in public relations have been granted authority by the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) to begin a chapter of the organization on the campus.

The PRSSA, a student affiliate of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA), is a recognized professional society for students interested in the public relations field.

The SIUE chapter is being sponsored by the St. Louis chapter of PRSA, an organization of more than 180 professionals in this region. A member of the organization, Annette Mulvaney Graebe, associate professor of speech communication and coordinator of the University Information Center at SIUE, has been designated the faculty adviser for the new student organization.

"Membership offers students opportunities for public relations growth through association with public relations peers and professional practitioners in the field," Mrs. Graebe said.

The group is open to SIUE students of all academic disciplines who indicate genuine interest in the public relations profession.

Professional advisers from the chapter who will assist here include Gary Ferguson, of Gary Ferguson, Inc., and Ronald Humiston, of Welterau, Inc.

While being photographed by a police sergeant, Hinkle allegedly struck the officer in the face; during the scuffle, the suspect allegedly knocked over and damaged the camera and tripod.

Necessary force was used to restrain him and he was handcuffed and taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

Hinkle allegedly continued to use abusive language to medical and security personnel at the hospital; he was treated and returned to jail.

In addition to the two initial charges, Hinkle also was booked for aggravated assault, resisting arrest and damaging city property.

Chromalloy's earnings down

Chromalloy American Corporation on Thursday reported net sales and operating revenues of continuing operations were up five percent for the first quarter this year over last, but earnings from continuing operations were down 58.2 percent from the year-ago first quarter.

This was largely because of the impact of unusually cold weather and high water conditions on Chromalloy's extensive barge line operations during the first three months this year. It is the parent firm of Precast Metals, Granite City.

Chromalloy's operating companies had $27 million in sales in the first quarter this year compared with $27 million in the first quarter of 1981.

First-quarter 1982 net earnings were $4.5 million, or 23 cents per primary share, compared with net earnings of $9.9 million, or 47 cents per primary share in the first quarter of 1981.

Frank F. Nykiel, president and chief executive officer, said the performance of

GC man faces five charges

A second disturbance from the 2000 block of 18th Street at 3 p.m. Wednesday resulted in the arrest of John J. Hinkle, 35, of 2033 Thirteenth St., who allegedly was standing in the street swinging a shovel when officers arrived. As the incident progressed, Hinkle looked on five separate charges.

Richard Sanders, 2015 Thirteenth St., alleged Hinkle had been walking in front of his residence, using obscene language toward him and his family and had provoked a fight.

It was alleged that Hinkle struck Karen Arrigo in the face and chest during the altercation and also hit a man attempting to break up the melee.

Hinkle was charged with battery on a complaint signed by Mrs. Arrigo, and disorderly conduct, signed by Sanders.

During the booking procedure at police headquarters, Hinkle allegedly continued to use loud and abusive language and made threats toward officers.

While being photographed by a police sergeant, Hinkle allegedly struck the officer in the face; during the scuffle, the suspect allegedly knocked over and damaged the camera and tripod.

Necessary force was used to restrain him and he was handcuffed and taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

Mayors defend tax—

was raised by Mayor Donald Melhorn of Swansea.

He said statistics have shown that rate increases in states with elected commerce commissions have been substantially lower than those granted by appointed commissions.

In addition, the Illinois Commerce Commission has granted average rate increases that are greater than the average increases granted by appointed commissions across the country, Melhorn said.

The council's executive board requested that the legislators work for passage of legislation making the ICC an elected body, with adequate representation of all parts of the state. Mayor Melhorn also asked them to support efforts to stop the practice of allowing inclusion of nuclear power plant construction costs in the rate base of power companies. He said a reversal of present procedures could reduce rates to consumers.

Council President Arthur Macke, mayor of Marietta, reminded the legislators that many residents of Southwestern Illinois have lost coal mine-related jobs as a result of a large influx of western coal into Illinois.

"Sulfur-related air quality standards, combined with reluctance on the part of coal-using corporations to install pollution control devices, have brought about an approximately 50 percent decrease in the market for Illinois mined coal within the state.

"Therefore, coal miners have lost income, utility customers are paying the greater cost of western coal through their utility bills, and we are paying severance taxes to the western states for low-sulfur coal," Macke said.

Mayor Macke asked that legislators help remedy this by supporting a temporary relaxation of sulfur-related air quality standards, to "allow the burning of Illinois coal in Illinois until control equipment is in place."

"The aim of this suggestion is to increase coal sales and provide jobs, while continuing to protect air quality," he also suggested that lawmakers push for additional state financial assistance to corporations for installation of sulfur removal equipment; investigate the possibility of imposing a tariff on out-of-state coal as a way to pay for this assistance;

Oppose a coal severance tax at this time; and vote to "encourage utilities to include construction costs related to nuclear power plants in electric rates, but not allowing the same for coal-fired plants."

Mayor Brauer asked for legislative support for the creation of a block grant program that would involve mayors in the decision-making process on how to distribute federal block grant funds in Illinois.

"Such an arrangement would help insure that local needs are addressed by the incoming block grant programs," he said.

In addition, the group advocated adequate representation of all geographic areas of the state on such a board.

O'Fallon Mayor Gary Mackey addressed the group as council executive board chairman and vice president of SIMAPC, asking the legislators to lend their support for restoration of state funding for the commission.

"Until this current fiscal year, the state of Illinois has provided the commission with a direct appropriation of funds to support its program of assistance to local officials, state agencies and the residents of Southwestern Illinois.

"Without this support, the commission will be unable to maintain its current level of service to the second largest urban area in Illinois," he said.

While Mayors' Council activities over the past several months have resulted in the identification of these five issues as being the most pressing council problems facing the council's members, the group will continue to evaluate other issues and develop other recommendations for legislative action, it was noted.

The mayors said they will monitor the progress made on the issues discussed with the legislators in the coming months.

positive feelings among residents, workers, businessmen and leaders about Southwestern Illinois.

—Maintenance and enhancement of existing local businesses.

—Reduction of the limiting effects of poverty on people and communities; and elevation of the level of economic activity to permit more personal satisfaction and individual fulfillment.

Part of the battleground in the development effort is "the state of mind" of the typical citizen about his home town, county and region, Lazerson said.

He called for stepped-up activities to correct whatever inadequacies exist; avoidance of negativism; and emphasis on acquainting all with Southwestern Illinois' favorable facts, including his belief that this is an excellent place to work, live, shop, raise a family, study, transact business and enjoy leisure pursuits.

Lazerson cited the local region's location in the center of the nation, availability of all types of transportation, existence of abundant and permanent water sources, and the presence of skilled labor.

Although there is fragmentation of communities and government, the speaker said he has attended many meetings of the Southwestern board that would involve mayors in the decision-making process, the gathering was told.

The speaker said he has attended many meetings of the Southwestern board that would involve mayors in the decision-making process, the gathering was told.

Lazerson envisioned a development corporation with a yearly budget exceeding $100,000.

He said it would consist of a board of directors, an executive director and staff, an economic development community, and a developers' council.

A marketing campaign would be devised to "sell Southwestern Illinois," he commented.

Lazerson said the entire bi-state region would benefit from more of an intergovernmental partnership between Missouri and Illinoisans, and added that it is essential to develop additional leadership in the Illinois segment of the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Thomas Thebaud chaired the meeting, held at Charlie's Restaurant.

Council asks for proof or apology

The Granite City Council voted 12-1 last week to ask

Realtor John Krekovich to prove or apologize for a seven-month-old comment that zoning imperfections have occurred in Granite City.

References to a discussion were included in a Sept. 17,

1981, Press-Record article that dealt with viewpoints on

should be zoned for residential or commercial use. The meeting was held prior to the city's passage of its present zoning ordinance.

Krekovich said Friday he does not feel he should retract what he said or provide proof.

City Clerk Robert Stevens said same afternoon was preparing the council's letter asking Krekovich to apologize or return with evidence of any improperly made zoning decisions.

Second Ward Alderman

Sam Whitmer said he chose to make known his feeling concerning the criticism—

and presented his response in the form of a motion—after obtaining the prior backing and encouragement of at least six other aldermen.

"In my opinion, he's saying someone in Granite

City did something (wrong)," Whitmer said at the council meeting last Tuesday.

The senior alderman (in terms of consecutive City Council service) commented

Friday he had probably been called "every name under the sun" but had "never been called" what the Realtor's general comment about the city may have implied.

Krekovich said his remarks were not directed at the alderman but didn't mention anybody's name," the businessman stressed.

Although his target was not Whitmer, Krekovich would not elaborate on his meaning Friday. He summed up, "As far as I'm concerned, it's just spilled milk."

He said he would welcome

a visit by Whitmer to his home or office to discuss the topic.

Whitmer said he could understand last fall's statement "if it came in the heat of the battle" during zoning debate (which it apparently did): "All he has to do is say it came in the heat of battle."

Krekovich made clear

Friday no apology will be forthcoming: "I'm not going to apologize to anyone."

Whitmer said the council can do nothing if Krekovich declines to reply. If there is no reply, the alderman said, his next step will be to go to the office of State's Attorney

Don W. Weber for a discussion.

Whitmer said if Weber tells him the state's attorney office can do nothing for him, he will drop the matter.

Hand cut by glass

Mrs. Annie L. Johnson, 43, of 34 Grenzer Homes,

Madison, was arrested at 2 a.m. Saturday for leaving the scene of an accident at 1:30 a.m. in which two East

St. Louisans parked autos were struck in a parking lot at Slough Road and Bremen

Avenue, Venice. Also booked for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, she was freed at 8 a.m. on $100 bail.

ARREST AND WARRANT

Donald L. Dermott, 18, of 1628 Delmar Ave. was arrested at 10:30 p.m.

Friday in the 1600 block of Spruce Street for possessing beer that night and also was booked on a warrant alleging earlier cannabis possession.

Auxiliary police applicants sought

Prospective candidates for the Granite City Auxiliary Police will have only one opportunity this year to apply for membership. It was announced this week by Police Chief Ronald J. Velzer.

Applications for the auxiliary corps will be accepted at the Granite City Police Department booth during the three-day Home Show scheduled Friday, May 14, through Sunday, May 16, Chief Velzer said.

The show will take place in the Wilson Park Ice Rink pavilion, with more than 90 exhibitors presenting a wide variety of merchandise and ideas for the home.

John Becker heads the auxiliary police unit, which has a 22-man force at the present time.

Auxiliary police candidates are required to take virtually the same training as the regular police department personnel, including a 24-hour police orientation program and firearms instruction, Chief Velzer said.

Those applying are given background checks, and requirements follow the same pattern as those seeking to join the regular force, he explained.

Persons wishing to apply for the auxiliary training must be 18 years of age or older, with discretionary evaluations applied to those between the ages of 18 and 21 years.

Auxiliary personnel assist in crowd control work and all types of emergencies, including severe weather conditions—such as last April's tornado and the Jan. 31-Feb. 1 snowstorm, the police chief said. Information about the auxiliary police will be available at the GCPD booth, manned by Officer Tim Lyarla.

Schneider is promoted

In August, 1970.

He was educated in the public schools in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Elmhurst, Ill., and was a professional entertainer in the Chicago area while in high school and college, singing and playing guitar with a folk singing duo.

With the Press-Record, Schneider has covered most aspects of the local news, including governmental, police and school news in Madison, Venice, Granite City, Mitchell, Potosi, Beach and Nameoki and Chateau Townships.

He also has covered Madison County governmental events and sports, and accompanied two state champion soccer and two championship basketball teams to regional and state tournaments. He is active in the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, serving on the crime prevention and sewer and drainage committees. He also has served as a past publicity chairman for the Heart Fund in the Quad-City area.

Schneider is married to the former Janice Townley of Granite City. They have two children, Adam, 13, who is a freshman at Granite City High School South, and Nicole, 10, who attends Frohardt Elementary School.

Schneider commented, "I am pleased to accept this challenge. The Press-Record has a proud tradition, dating back to 1863. The newspaper has been widely honored over the years for complete local news, sports and society coverage and an excellent staff has been gathered over the years to assure continuation of that tradition. I intend to do everything within our resources to continue to earn your trust and remain the hometown newspaper of the Quad-City area, as we have been for nearly 80 years," Schneider concluded.

the right eye and then was released. Dorian Magwitz, owner of Hamilton Jewelers, 715 Locust, and Victor Ingarten, an employee of the store, were preparing a window display there when they saw someone beating Molnar.

They rushed outside to intervene, and grabbed Petty, Magwitz, a licensed private investigator, handcuffed him.

"Molnar probably would have been killed if Magwitz and Ingarten hadn't stopped it," Capt. Joseph Spies, central district police commander, commented Friday. He said he will nominate the two for police department citizen citations and for St. Louis Grand Jury Association awards.

Magwitz said, "I don't want any recognition for this; I was just doing my job as a citizen." Ingarten big city. I'd do (rescue Molnar) again."

Petty previously was one of the subjects of a police investigation on Feb. 22; a Berkeley man, 66, was assaulted by an individual that day, but would not prosecute.

The Granite City on Friday was struck with fists, knocked to the sidewalk and then kicked before his assailant was stopped.

Authorities quoted the St. Louisian as saying the 77-year-old was chosen at random due to what was interpreted as God's instructions.

that she never leaves their home state without him. Letters from friends and acquaintances praised his character.

Judge Ackerman earlier denied a motion by Cooper for a reduction of sentence, and Cooper this month began serving a 15-year term at a federal facility in Springfield, Mo. Ackerman has indefinitely stayed Maera's 15-year sentence, on the basis of testimony that his physical condition has deteriorated.

24 HOUR SERVICE

Rodney S. Walker, 1914 Beckwith St., Madison, was charged with reckless driving at 12:35 a.m. Friday following a one-car accident on Route 3, near Harding Boulevard, in which he sustained injuries.

Walker was traveling south when his vehicle left the road, skidded some distance on the shoulder and struck the end of a guard rail.

The vehicle "rode" the rail for 69 feet and then rolled 72 feet before coming to a halt on its side, authorities determined.

Walker was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

factor involved. So, the sale of the real estate can proceed with the city knowing the work will be done.

"If, however, this is not complied with, then the city needs an ordinance with enforcement powers so that it can follow through on it."

Edwin Reinagel addressed the group and asked what type of legal paper the city would give Realtors—in regard to repairs to be finished after a purchase—so that a loan could be closed, if such an ordinance goes into effect.

As various opinions were voiced, John Krevovich, a past president of the Board of Realtors, said he is against the occupancy permit proposal. He said that, in his opinion, the proposal "dictates to property owners, and that is wrong."

"I think we are willing to work with your committee but I am against the present proposal. Let the city inspection department do their job. I don't push this off on property owners."

"The people, through taxes, are paying their wages, so let them do their job."

"I could only support an occupancy ordinance if, when it is completely written out, the city put it before the people for a vote."

Krevovich made such a motion and Hoffman seconded it, but Barton declined to take a vote on the motion. Realtor Ray Kaegel elaborated on one paragraph in the Alton code which disturbed him, but that it is very similar to codes adopted across the country.

The section said in part, "Authority to inspect dwellings, dwelling units, accessory structures and premises: The deputy director is hereby authorized and directed to make inspections to determine the condition of dwellings, dwelling units, rooming units and premises located within the city, in order that they may perform their duty of safeguarding the health and safety of the occupants of dwellings and of the general public."

"For the purpose of making such inspections, the deputy director is hereby authorized to enter, examine and survey at all reasonable times all dwellings."

"In the event the owner or occupant of any dwelling, or the person in charge, thereof, refuses to give the deputy director free access to such dwelling at any reasonable time for the purpose of such inspection, then, in that event, the deputy director may apply for a search warrant for such inspection from a court of competent jurisdiction when it is reasonably believed that any provision of this chapter is being violated."

Fisk said the Alton code is being used as a guideline only, but that it is very similar to codes adopted across the country.

"I am happy to have this meeting to gather opinions, and would like to have a committee of Realtors appointed to discuss future ideas before any official action is taken on an occupancy permit ordinance," the alderman concluded.

of the suspect and the vehicle he fled in. This valuable information resulted in the suspect's apprehension and arrest.

"Further, we wish to thank you for cooperation in testifying during the trial which culminated in the conviction."

It is the cooperation of citizens like yourself that helps 'take the handcuffs off' law enforcement officers, placing the handcuffs instead on criminals and ultimately incarcerating them in the penitentiary, where they belong, away from society."

"Please convey our sincere appreciation to your family. Again, we thank you and your family for fine cooperation and support."

Lieutenant Colonel Nease also wrote Crime Prevention Committee Chairman Decatur: "Enclosed are copies of letters to Joseph L. Kremers and three employees of the Farm Fresh store."

"You will note that Mr. Kremers made a substantial citizen contribution to the apprehension, arrest and conviction of Chriscio in the armed robbery of the store. Crone, also charged, entered a plea of guilty and gave evidence against Chriscio."

"It is recognized that the three employees were important to the conviction."

"Mr. Kremers, his wife and two young children were with him when, in small denominations from both cash registers into the bandit's brown paper bag, with the bandit then leaving through the front entrance door."

"A witness, who was with small children were walking in front of the store. He had seen a subject of the same description, carrying a grocery bag, enter a dark-colored station wagon with wood grain on the side. He was sure of the number because he had flashed his light on the license plate."

"This information was disseminated to all units. A roadblock was set up, with the Madison police blocking off exits to their city and Venice police doing the same."

"Patrolman Kenneth Crawford had positioned his squad car on 18th Street at Madison Avenue. Meanwhile, Lieutenant James Lengyel, Second Watch commander, was watching Madison Avenue from the police headquarters when he observed a vehicle of like description and license number."

"It passed the headquarters, traveling south on Madison Avenue toward Crawford's location."

"This information was quickly given to all units via radio. All units began to converge toward this area."

prevention because of the possibility that an armed robbery by a masked bandit will be committed. It has almost become a tradition."

"All was well until, at 7:53 p.m., a dispatch was given that an armed robbery had occurred at Farm Fresh, 2928 Nameoki Road. Our men went into action."

"A subject wearing a flesh-colored, monster-type Halloween mask—about 5-9 in height, with dark hair and a moustache, appearing unshaven and carrying a large brown paper shopping bag—had entered the store."

"It was Halloween and he was looking about the store. One employee thought he was probably only looking for candy."

"Another employee was curious; he raised the subject's mask and then let it back down. The subject continued and, coming to the two cash registers, held the brown bag up with his left hand."

"He stated to an employee, 'The registers.'"

"The employee looked at the masked subject for a moment."

"The masked man reached around his right side to his right hip area and pulled out a small-caliber, automatic pistol approximately four inches in length. It had brown handles and a black frame."

"The employee placed U.S. currency in small denominations from both cash registers into the bandit's brown paper bag, with the bandit then leaving through the front entrance door."

"A witness, who was with small children were walking in front of the store. He had seen a subject of the same description, carrying a grocery bag, enter a dark-colored station wagon with wood grain on the side. He was sure of the number because he had flashed his light on the license plate."

Police to halt trucks parking on sidewalks

Starting today, April 26, Granite City police officers will enforce ordinances which prohibit trucks parking on sidewalks. They will hold the truck owner or company operating the vehicle, the driver and the property owner responsible for any damage to the pavement, Police Chief Ronald J. Velzer said.

Chief Velzer noted that trucks have been seen parked on city sidewalks in violation of state laws and city ordinances.

He said growing concern has been expressed about the damage caused to the sidewalks and the possibility of injury claims by pedestrians against the city. He pointed out that a city law prohibits all vehicular traffic from being driven within a sidewalk area or roadway marked as a "safety zone," except on a permanent or temporary driveway.

A second ordinance states, "It is unlawful to injure any sidewalk, street or alley pavement."

Police officers observing such violations by a truck or other oversized vehicle have been directed to issue a citation to the operator, note any pavement damage and obtain information about the owner.

Letters then will be sent by the police department to the vehicle's owner or company and the property owner where the offense occurs, advising them of their responsibilities and liability, Chief Velzer said.

BOOKED ON WARRANT Thomas Eugene Gifford, 21, of 2697 Missouri Ave. was arrested at Nameoki and Johnson roads at 8 p.m. Friday on a 1981 Pontiac Beach warrant alleging theft. He was released at noon Saturday on $217 bail.

British interest in Cahokia Mounds

By JUDY TAPLIN
"I am the most imitated man on British television," Prof. David Bellamy contends. He says Benny Hill is included among the imitators.
Sometime next year, the British television audience will see Bellamy standing on Monk's Mound at the Cahokia Mounds Historic Site. And it will see Cruikshank move yet another house out of the Ramey subdivision, future site of a new museum.
Bellamy's programs are in the prime time slot on the British Broadcasting system.
He says at least 11 million of the nation's 52 million people will lean forward and turn the dial to BBC when he comes on.
With Producer Mike Weatherley and a camera and sound crew, Bellamy arrived at Cahokia Mounds last Monday. Filming was to end by Wednesday.
The scenes at Cahokia Mounds are part of an eight-part series on how the plants of America have shaped the life of man. This particular segment devotes itself to maize, the crop we refer to as corn.
Bellamy calls the TV productions he stars in "light education."
This segment starts out with a Starsky and Hutch chase across the Arizona desert.

Bellamy is being pursued by police because they mistakenly have the idea that he is a cactus rustler. Actually, Bellamy was on location in the Southwest because that is where the first maize was discovered in prehistoric times.

The first Americans followed big game for survival, he explains, and that game depended on plant food.

When the big game was gone, something else was needed to keep the early Indian cultures alive.

Amazingly, it was at this point that maize was discovered, he said.

With this discovery, the Indians could settle in one place, allowing what became the Mississippian culture of Cahokia Mounds.

"All these American cultures developed on maize," Bellamy said. "It was growing wild, not brought in."

"You should be proud of the blooming fact. They took these weeds and, without any knowledge of botany, made it into a crop."

Bellamy, a professor of plant ecology at the University of Durham for the past 22 years, was not disappointed with the unassuming appearance of Cahokia Mounds. He had known what to expect.

But although Americans 10 years ago showed little interest in their prehistoric heritage, that has changed drastically in the past few years, Bellamy said.

The average British citizen, like the average American, has never heard of Cahokia Mounds, he said.

Weatherley said no one he talked to in St. Louis could tell him where the Mounds were located.

Britain has learned everything there is to know about its own history, but in America, "your prehistory is still being discovered," Bellamy said.

He is confident that Cahokia Mounds will win a place this year on the prestigious World Heritage List.

The historic site was nominated for the list last year.

Why was the house moving of interest to Bellamy? It showed, he said, the importance of Cahokia Mounds to somebody.

"Only in America would they move 60 houses out," Farmers in Illinois will be heartened to learn that Bellamy sees corn as "the plant of the future," as well as the sustenance of the prehistoric Indians.

In one part of his program, Bellamy walks through a supermarket (to us, a bigger supermarket) and takes down all those items made of corn.

Then he asks his audience what would be left. The inside of the store is empty.

The TV series on BBC will be called "Bellamy's America" unless it undergoes a name change in the meantime.

RELEASED ON BOND AFTER VENICE ARREST
Maurice Wells, 30, of East St. Louis was released on $402 cash bond at 8:05 p.m. Wednesday. He was arrested in the 300 block of Weaver St., Venice, on charges of disorderly conduct, driving with his license suspended and resisting arrest.

When stopped by police, Wells left his car in the middle of Weaver Street and allegedly began screaming, cursing and fighting police. He is to appear in court May 14 to answer the charges.

Iowa St. by a neighbor who called the Granite City Ambulance Service. Circumstances surrounding the death were being investigated today by police.

Mr. Trawick was lying face up between the two buildings, amid dirt and debris when discovered. A small puncture wound was visible to the left side of his head above an ear, and a fragmentation type wound was noted on the right side of his head.

Official reports said a large amount of blood also was noticeable on a wooden board, which was laying partially under the upper body.

A blue steel .357-caliber magnum revolver was recovered from beneath Mr. Trawick's left leg. The weapon had one spent round of ammunition in the cylinder under the firing pin, reports stated.

Richard Trawick, 2420 Iowa St., said he had last seen his brother, Steven, on Thursday.

Mr. Trawick

How to finance sheriff deputies still unanswered

By JIM SCHLUEYER

Urban and rural Madison County Board members alike are trying to figure out how to maintain police protection in the county's unincorporated areas. Finding an acceptable way to raise the money hasn't been easy.

At last week's board meeting, the county again voted to table a resolution placing a tax referendum on the November ballot. The new tax revenues would support sheriff's protection in unincorporated areas.

This killed the referendum because it was tabled for the second straight meeting.

However, a new dispute erupted over assistant state's attorney Marshall "Zeko" Smith's proposal to create a Special Service Area No. 2 to provide police protection for unincorporated areas of the county.

The district could be formed without a referendum. (Area No. 1 is the local sewer service area.)

The proposal was referred to the county's legislative committee for further study, but not before some heated discussion.

Under this ordinance, only the people receiving the protection would pay for the service, while the referendum would have called for a countywide tax increase.

The referendum would have forced county residents living in municipalities to pay more than for protection of unincorporated areas.

Most of the board members said they wanted to avoid that, and they also wanted to avoid a rural-urban rift arising from the dispute.

Homer Henke, Moro, was violently against approving a special service ordinance without getting the opinions of the people who would receive the benefits and pay the taxes.

"When I got my agenda I was upset, mad, surprised and shocked by the way it was presented to shove down rural people's throats," Henke said. "I have not heard many people in my area ask for more police protection."

"What they have asked for is more cars on the road and less cars parked on the road visiting each other and cars parked at coffee shops. I don't think the unincorporated areas should be saddled with a tax before getting a chance to speak on this."

Herschel Beane, Godfrey, was also against the special service area being established, because he said Godfrey already pays for its own special police protection.

"In Godfrey we already have a tax supporting our police," Beane said. "Godfrey Township would now be looking at paying another tax."

Board member Louis Whitsell was in favor of the new special service area.

He said he was heavily involved with Special Service Area No. 1, which provides sewer service to Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

Whitsell, of Ponton Beach pointed out that a public hearing would be held within 60 days of the ordinance's passage, in accordance with the state law authorizing creation of special service areas.

He also stressed that the service would be governed by a five-man committee selected by Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer.

The committee would be made up of people from the special service area and would meet with Sheriff Emil Toftant to determine the amount of protection desired and the tax levy needed to pay for the service.

"I have a major role in Service Area No. 1, and it's the fairest way to go about anything," Whitsell said. "If the people don't like it, they only have to petition against it."

A petition signed by 51 percent of the county's rural eligible voters would be necessary to defeat formation of the special police district.

Smith defended his resolution by saying that he is trying to find ways the county can raise the money to keep up its police services.

"The core of our problem is money. It's not a question of having more protection, but to find a way to get the money to maintain what we have now," Smith said.

"If the ordinance doesn't force anything down their throats. Five people from the area would be able to govern the area."

In what Maj. Erwin Knezevich of the sheriff's department called "a resounding defeat in the saturation program," the Madison County Board voted not to buy sheriff's cars with $25,000 allocated for their purchase in the 1982 budget.

After submitting specifications for a second time, Sheriff Toftant had said he would accept the 12 Ford Excursion offered by Klauermeyer Ford of Alhambra for $6,038.32 each.

Once again, the county decided that it couldn't afford the new cars, or the program instituted by the sheriff that allows each deputy to have a car 24 hours a day.

"Personally, I believe we should go back to using cars around the clock," Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer said. "It couldn't cost us any more than the way we're doing it right now."

The board voted heavily against purchase of the cars. The two yes votes came from Herschel Beane, Godfrey, and James Stalcup, East Alton.

Both are members of the county's central services committee, and they had met with the sheriff after the board last month refused to purchase cars in accordance with Toftant's original specifications of front-wheel drive and six-cylinder engines.

At last week's board meeting, the county also turned down the less expensive cars with smaller engines.

The new cars would have replaced 1977 Ford LTD II's in the 73-car fleet.

But now those 1977 cars will be retired as the department phases out of the existing program and into one where the cars are used 24 hours a day.

Some of those older cars have close to 150,000 miles of use, but Knezevich doubts that any more cars will last that long.

"The reason why we got 150,000 miles out of the cars was because they got tender loving care from individual drivers," Knezevich said.

The reduction in repair is one reason why Knezevich, the sheriff department's director of administration, believes that giving each deputy a car is cheaper than using cars 24 hours a day with three deputies assigned to each vehicle.

He also discounted the argument that it is not efficient for deputies to use a county vehicle for personal use.

"A deputy may take that car to the golf course, but he is subject at any time to be called off that golf course," Knezevich said.

"If we take the car away from him and tell him to stay by a phone, we have to pay him to sit by that phone. And at the same time, we're trying to cut down on overtime."

"The 24-hour program will be more expensive. It always has been."

White signs with the University of Central Florida

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

Four years ago Greg White promised his mother she would not have to pay for his college education. Monday evening White made good on that promise.

White, or Whitey as his friends call him, did so by signing his national letter of intent to play soccer at the University of Central Florida at Orlando. The signing took place in his home amidst friends, family and coaches.

Monday was Whitey's night. All of the excitement seemed to humble his otherwise aggressive nature. At one point, when he thought only his mother could hear, he told her how embarrassing the eventful evening was.

"This is great, but you didn't have to do all this. It's embarrassing," he whispered to his mother.

Mrs. Janet White displayed her emotions less discretely. "I'm excited. I just can't believe it," she said, her voice crackling with excitement.

The scholarship was particularly good news for her, a single parent.

"I'm afraid someone's going to say April Fools," Mrs. White said.

According to Jim Rudy, who'll be Whitey's coach for the next four years, Whitey is the first person to sign with UCF for the coming season. "I think he'll like it here," Rudy said Monday evening in a telephone conversation. "We've put together a good package here for Greg."

Rudy signed Whitey solely upon the recommendation of another coach. He's never seen him play.

The "full-ride" scholarship amounts to $4,600 annually, the most permitted by NCAA guidelines. The scholarship also provides for tuition, room, board and books.

Not all of Whitey's time will be spent on the soccer field. One place where he said he thought he'd be found when he's not working on his computer engineering degree is the beaches.

"Greg's worked hard for this," Mrs. White said. "I don't know how many hours he's spent practicing at the kickboards during the summer months."

Hard work is evidently something Whitey is well acquainted with. He was a member of Granite City South's 1978, 1979 and 1980 state championship soccer teams. During the 1980 and 1981 seasons, he was the team's defensive captain.

His defensive prowess on the soccer field enabled him to acquire nicknames such as "South's Secretary of Defense" and "Rabbits," in addition to Whitey.

"Secretary of Defense" may be self-explanatory, but "Rabbits" and "Whitey" may need explanation.

"Rabbits?" South's coach Gene Baker said. I think they called Whitey that because of the way he went after people during the tackle drills — like a rabbit animal."

And as for "Whitey," Whitey himself doesn't know if that came because of his blonde hair or because of his last name.

"Whitey's a good soccer player. I've been high on the kid since he was a freshmen. I'm proud to see him go on."

Baker said to see the wing fullback (Whitey's 5-foot-7) he does well on the soccer field. He's an intelligent soccer player. Florida State is getting a blue chipper in Whitey," Baker said. "He's one of my favorite kids."

When asked to summarize Whitey in few words, Baker called him "an aggressive player, an over achiever." That kind of aggressiveness and sense of achievement has made Whitey a good student in addition to a good soccer player. He ranks ninth academically in his class of 450.

"I'll miss him," Baker said.

One person who is not too upset to see the wing fullback go off to college is Whitey's sister Karen.

Karen, it seems, has been experiencing an identity crisis as Whitey's sister. More students know her as "Little Whitey" or as "Whitey's little sister," than as Karen White. With Whitey's graduation this spring, she hopes that'll all change.

To most people Whitey is known as a soccer player. To Karen, Whitey is only a brother. She doesn't idolize Whitey. One person who does idolize Whitey is Todd Pryor. Todd is an eight-year-old who has taken to Whitey. Their mutual interest is soccer.

Whitey's first encounter with Todd was a letter the eight-year-old had written last season. The letter is as follows:

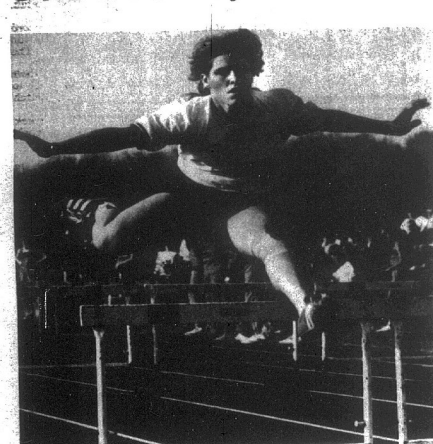

Dear Whitey, I think you are the best player for the South Warriors. I have the same number that you do, number 4. I take all of the free kick like you do. I saw all of your games in 1981. And your playoff games too. I play defense to, I would like a smaller picture of you if you got a extra one. Maybe if your not to busy you could come and watch our o'clock at Madison and Sunday 3 o'clock at Madison. I would like to be your friend.

The letter was signed "your soccer fan, Todd Pryor."

SOCCER FRIENDS. Greg White and Todd Pryor look through Whitey's soccer scrapbook. The two met following a letter Pryor had written to the Warrior soccer stand-out.

Steelers, Warriors tie in Gateway East Relays

HURDLER'S FORM. North's Christa Gargac reaches out over a hurdle in Friday's Gateway East Conference Track meet. The Steeler girls finished third, behind Edwardsville and Granite City South.

Lady Warrior tracksters edge Steelers

EDWARDSVILLE — Neither Granite City South nor North won the Gateway East Conference Relays Friday, but both teams had reasons to celebrate. Edwardsville won both the boys' and girls' competition.

For the South Warriors there was clear reason for celebration. They had beaten Cahokia, a team they had lost to earlier this spring, and they had tied Granite City North, another team who had showed the Warriors the bottom of their shoes the week before.

For the Steelers it was a day of revelations. A day when coach Harry Lang saw what the potential of his underclassmen.

"It was particularly pleased with the 3200 meter relay team of (Darrin) Bernaix, (John) Peters, (Jim) Robertson and (Bill) Schaefer. They've come a long way," Lang said.

Peters, a sophomore, ran the first leg in 2:04. Bernaix, a freshman, ran the second leg of the two mile race in 2:07. Robertson, a sophomore, ran the third leg in 2:07 and Schaefer, a junior, ran the anchor in 2:07. Their time of 8:27 is 12 seconds better than their previous best, and good enough for third place.

The Steelers' excellent time in the mile relay was surpassed by Edwardsville's and the performance of Warrior stonemason Dave McLean, Ron Brown, Steve Dumont and Jim McQuade. All Warriors' times in the 3200 were personal bests and good enough for first place.

McLean ran the first leg of the race in 2:01. His previous best was 2:03. Brown was the most improved Warrior, shaving six seconds off his time from 12:12 to 2:06. Dumont followed suit by turning a time of 2:04. His best prior to that was 2:08. McQuade trimmed five seconds off his time, turning in a 2:03 on the final leg.

All in all, the Warriors turned in 12 personal best scores Friday.

Other personal bests included Ed Cowley's performance in the sprint medley. Cowley ran a 52.9, two-tenths seconds better than his previous best. Dan Harris and Bill Smith each turned in a personal best in the 300 meter low hurdles. Harris ran the event in 43.2, four and a half seconds better than his previous best. Smith's time of 40.2 was 1.8 seconds better than a previous best.

In the distance medley McLean ran the 1200 meters in 3:16, 14 seconds better than his best time, and McQuade managed his best time ever in the mile 4:40, three seconds better than his previous best.

In the triple jump South's Ed Cowley improved upon his best mark ever by 3-feet-3 inches, jumping 48-feet-3.

Paul Smith managed a two-inch increase in his best high jump performance as he stretched 5-feet-2. In the discus competition South's Jeb Blasinger threw for 124-feet-8. His previous best was 115 feet.

"Needless to say I'm pretty happy

"I don't care if a kid finished dead last in his event, if he turns in a personal best time or distance, he's a winner."

Mel Bunting
Warrior track coach with the results," Bunting said. "I don't care if a kid finishes dead last in his event, if he turns in a personal best time or distance, he's a winner."

North's coach Lang was more analytical of the meet.

"We had to contend with Edwardsville's speed, South's dominance in the distance events, and Cahokia's hurdlers. We won two field events, but we were able to stay in the thing by virtue of our second place finishes."

"Our kids were continually running against someone's best...we were between a rock and a hard place."

Lang attributes North's second place finish to the depth and balance of his team.

"We're holding our own. Nobody's blowing us out," Lang said.

For the Steelers, Doug Sheppard turned in an outstanding performance in the 800 meter relay as he assisted the Steelers in turning their best time ever in that event, 1:34.9.

"Doug did the job for us," Lang said. "Doug had a good practice Wednesday. He was really up for this one."

Lang also commended North's distance medley team of Peters, Schaefer, Brian Pickens and Robertson.

"I was really pleased with those guys," The Steelers' time of 11:10 was good enough for second place finish.

Both teams will square off again Tuesday in the Madison County Track meet at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Steelers go 3-0, win South's weekend tournament

GRANITE CITY — Until this weekend, Granite City North had problems putting everything together. When the Steelers hit the ball well, their hitting and pitching faltered. When the Steelers pitched well, their hitting and fielding faltered.

When the fielding was good...You get the picture.

The Steelers put everything together in the Granite City South Round Robin Tournament. North easily won the tournament by defeating Normal University High 10-1 Friday, Benet Academy (Lake) 15-3 and Granite South 8-4 Saturday.

This is the second straight year the Steelers have won the tournament.

To say the Steelers put everything together in the tournament was the understatement of the baseball season. Here's what the Steelers did:

—The Steelers scored 34 runs, better than 11 runs a game.

—The Steelers had 43 hits in the tournament. Brian Levin set a school record by going 4-for-4 against Benet.

—North stole 18 bases in 19 attempts in the tournament.

—All of North's pitchers gave up just one earned run each during the tournament. At times, the fielding gave out, but the Steelers quickly recovered from their mistakes.

"We did a lot of the right things when we had to," North coach Bob Stegemeier said. "I was very pleased

"I'd like to think it was good coaching which made us hit better...The top of the order came through, and the bottom of the order also contributed. It seems hitting is contagious."

Bob Stegemeier
Steeler baseball coach with the way we performed. The years when we won this tournament, we've had pretty good seasons. It seems like we do well this time of year."

"I'd like to think it was good coaching which made us hit better," Stegemeier joked. "I wish I knew what it really was. The top of the order came through, and the bottom part of the order also contributed. It seems hitting's contagious."

Meanwhile, the host Warriors didn't fare nearly as well. Besides their loss to North, the Warriors lost to Benet 5-3 Friday and to Normal 2-0 Saturday.

The Steelers were 5-0 in the round robin. Benet was 2-1, Normal was 1-2, and South was 0-3.

North won the round robin with its victory over South, but the Steelers had to overcome one of their few lapses of an otherwise brilliant weekend to go undefeated in the tournament.

Three of Steeler errors in the third inning gave the Warriors a 4-3 lead. Dave Dumont reached on an error, stole second, went to third on an error, and scored on Rick Daily's ground ball.

Daily scored on John Linhart's single, and George Jarvis and Linhart scored on an error to South's edge.

The Steelers roared back in the game in the fifth inning. Kevin Hayes opened the inning with a walk. Daren DePew hit a single, and Dave Gebhart, Hayes' pinch runner, scored on Levin's single.

DePew scored on an error, and Trutschuh hit a single to drive in Levin.

Hayes' single reached on a walk, and Trutschuh and Shishak scored on Carl Luehmann's triple. Mike Sullivan drove home Luehmann with a single, and Sullivan scored on Hayes' single.

All of the runs scored with two out. That inning was the best example of what the Steelers did throughout the tournament. North scored three or more runs in seven of the 11 innings it played in the tournament.

Individually, the Steelers were solid up and down the line-up. Trutschuh was North's top hitter in the tournament by going 4-for-12 and had six RBIs against Benet, which tied a school record.

Levin had six hits for the tournament. DePew was 5-for-10. Shishak had five hits, Hayes had six RBIs for the tournament, and Luehmann was 3-for-7.

Because the Steelers have conference games with Cahokia on Monday and Granite South on Wednesday, Stegemeier had to use five pitchers. Ray Takmajian, scheduled to start in today's game with Cahokia, pitched only three innings against Normal.

Paul Barrington won't start again until Wednesday, but he could not pitch more than one game.

Stegemeier called on Jimmy Burton to complete Friday's game, and a pair of sophomores, Sam Tate and Dan Trutschuh, to pitch against Benet.

Needless to say, Stegemeier got more than he bargained for.

"The sophomores did a fine job. It was a big important effort for them because that game made us 2-0 and gave us the chance to win the title outright," Stegemeier said.

The sophomores gave up six hits against Benet. Takmajian and Burton teamed for a 5-hitter against Normal.

and Barrington pitched a 5-hitter against the Warriors. Burton, Tate and Barrington were the winning pitchers for the Steelers.

South just couldn't put everything together in the tournament. South's game with Benet started out well when Morduch hit a home run on the first pitch of the game. South had a 2-0 first inning lead, but Benet came back with three runs in the second inning.

Dominic Griffin was the losing pitcher for South.

Baseball meeting, clinic Thursday

Persons interested in umpiring baseball for the Granite City Park District are required to attend the baseball umpire's clinic on Thursday, April 29, at 6:30 a.m. at the Harold Brown Recreation Center, Franklin and Ames Avenues.

The meeting, conducted by Greg Pare, baseball supervisor, will cover all rule changes, interpretations and clarifications. The material covered in this meeting will prove valuable for those first year umpires and those umpires who have had previous experience in the park district baseball program.

Persons must be at least 16 years of age to qualify as an umpire and have a good working knowledge of baseball.

At 7:30 p.m. following the umpire's meeting, Conrad "Babe" Champion will conduct a baseball managers' clinic.

The clinic will cover recent rule changes, interpretations and

While this meeting is not listed on the manager's "Important Date Sheet," it is required for them to attend.

With the upcoming baseball season just around the corner, it is important to clear up any possible misinterpretations before the season starts.

Madison's errors lift Assumption to 16-6 victory

MADISON — Sometimes, the Madison Trojans seem to be turning the corner towards respectability, but something always manages to stop them just before they get there.

Against East St. Louis Assumption Thursday, that something was errors. Madison committed five errors in the Pioneers' nine-run fourth inning, and Assumption defeated the Trojans 16-6 in a six inning game.

Madison coach John Paskus held a 40 minute meeting after Thursday's game, the Trojans' seventh straight loss. Paskus gathered the Trojans around the pitcher's mound and they discussed the errors the Trojans made.

Had the Trojans held together, they might have pulled out their first victory of the season. But errors and walks killed the Trojans' dreams of coming from behind.

"It was errors and walks again," Paskus said. "The fourth inning killed us. We've had our ups and downs, and we have to be a good fielding team because we don't have a strong hitting team."

Assumption jumped to a 4-0 lead in the first inning, but the Pioneers had five hits which were responsible for the runs.

Madison scored single runs in the first three innings and trailed 4-3. Elsie McMillon scored the first inning runs on a single, stolen base, and two wild pitches. Fred Smith scored on an error in the second, and Dave Kaminsky singled and scored on Jeff Niehaus' single in the third.

The fourth inning truly killed the Trojans. Besides the five errors, Kaminsky, the losing pitcher for Madison, also walked three batters. He was upset that he had given up 13 hits and that he had to stay in the game for all six innings. At the meeting, Paskus tried to console him by pointing out errors had cost the game, not the hits.

"It was errors and walks again. We've had our ups and downs, and we have to be a good fielding team because we don't have a strong hitting team."

hits.

The Trojans' other regular pitcher, Danny Siern, had pitched two days earlier and wasn't ready to go.

"He was just getting frustrated. He wasn't comfortable out there. He doesn't quite understand that even the good pitchers are going to get hit hard sometimes. I wasn't upset with the hits. You can't have that many walks and errors though," Paskus said about the remainder of the Trojans.

Antoine Liddell, a sophomore for Assumption, was the winning pitcher. It was the first game he ever pitched.

Warriors finish on top in North-South tennis battle

GRANITE CITY — In their first meeting of the season, the Granite City South Warriors defeated the Granite City North tennis team five games to two Thursday.

From the beginning both teams played with intensity, a characteristic of the matches when the cross-town rivals meet.

As anticipated, South's number one singles player, John Menendez, and South's number two singles player, Matt Sheridan, won their matches. Both were state qualifiers last year.

In first singles Menendez defeated Steeler Kendall Whittington in straight sets 6-3, 6-3.

In the second singles match, North's David Lipson could not serve up South's Sheridan, and lost 4-6, 3-6.

South's first and second singles victories came as no surprise to South's coach, Harmon. He expected victories from Menendez and Sheridan. He also knew of North's strengths in doubles competition.

"I'm afraid it's going to boil down to the third singles match," he said. "Whoever wins that match should win the event."

In essence, that was the case. South's Charlie Miles and North's Jesse Byrd battled for more than two hours in their third singles match. By far it was the best tennis match of the afternoon, and probably the best so far this spring.

Byrd jumped out to a commanding first set victory winning 7-5. At that point Miles, who was hitting a slump in his shot, lost, and was confused.

In the second set Miles stopped forcing his shots, calmed, and began to pressure Byrd into committing the errors. Miles reciprocated the second set, winning 7-5.

By the third set both players felt the pressure. Cheers and compliments from teammates rang across two courts to the third where the two were doing battle.

Shouts of "nice shot Charlie," or "excellent return Byrd," sounded with each winning point.

They were evenly paired, as evidenced by the first sets scores. The winner of the match would not be the best tennis player. Rather it would be the one who remained the coolest for the third and final set.

After the third game in the third set, Miles led two games to one. Byrd was not to be undone, as he broke Miles' serve to tie the match at two games apiece.

The two traded victories until the games were tied at four games each. In the ninth game of the third set Miles won ahead five games to four as Byrd tired.

An unforced error by Byrd in the tenth game enabled the Miles' victory.

"Charlie's left-handed you know. That would make his backhand my forehand. I had problems making the adjustment. When I was thinking his backhand, it was actually his forehand," Byrd said after the match. "I don't get to play against many left-handers."

Left-handed Miles had high praise for his opponent after the match.

"He was tougher than I thought he'd be," Miles said. "I thought I was going to blow him away, but he gave me another thought. He was good."

South's victories in the singles matches were limited to the first three matches. North's Everett Jolly defeated South's Brian Sparks in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0.

North's second victory came in the third doubles match as Stealers Mike Lauderdale and Jeff Rush defeated Don Kalmeyer and Bill Porel 6-2, 6-3.

The second singles match by this time was academic. South had already established itself as the winner with a four to two lead in games with only a single match remaining.

Such was the case, but North and South's second doubles teams didn't seem to know as they continued to play as if it were for the championship.

In that match Miles and Kevin Dickerson took a commanding first set victory over North's Jolly and John Acosta winning 6-0, but had a more difficult time in the second set winning on a tie breaker 7-5.

"I'm really proud of all of these guys," Harmon said, "and especially Miles. He played a heck of a match. Byrd is to be commended also."

The victory puts the Warrior record at 5-4. After a slow start, they've won six of their last seven matches. The Stealers are now 1-4 on the season.

Monday the Warriors take on Alhorth in Belleville. Tuesday they travel to Cahokia, followed by a home match against North on Wednesday.

For the Stealers it'll be a week packed with tennis, as they play each night this week.

Monday they travel to Cahokia to take on the Comanches. Tuesday the Stealers take on Triad at home, followed by South's match on Wednesday. Thursday on Thursday and Hazelwood Central on Friday.

Sports of All Sorts

By AL BARNES

It was a game in which I couldn't lose. Anyway it went, the Cougars of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were bound to win. It was the annual SIUE varsity versus the Alumni and it resulted in a knock-down and drag-out battle for most of the game, but finally the youngsters won it.

Man, it was nice seeing all the Old Timers back frolicking in the outfield, infield and at the bat and then, on the basepaths. Such ex-Cougar baseball stars as Granite Cityans Don Rains and Roger Belabe, probably one of the best batteries that SIUE has ever fielded, brought back many fond memories. For Rains, it was his constant brilliance over four years for the Cougars, but Belabe's dramatic entry into the SIUE during his freshman year down in New Orleans against Tulane University would be hard to top, too.

It was not like blasting a home in one's first game in the majors, or course, but for him and his teammates, it was nearly so.

Cougar Roy Lee that spring was high on Belabe, but there was two veteran catchers ahead of him. So, the night before the opening game against the Green Wave of Tulane, myself and the bus driver, Dan (Red) Huff, opened all our vocal throats trying to convince Coach Lee to start Belabe. Finally, more in an effort to get us off his back, he agreed to enter Roger's name in the SIUE lineup.

First time up against a red-hot Tulane team, Belabe fanned after reaching a full count and fouling off about 10 pitches. In the third frame, with a runner on base, Belabe hit the first pitch over the left field fence. The next time up, he soloed into almost the same spot and the Cougars went on to win.

One of the highlights of Sunday's Alumni Day game was the inside the park fourbagger crashed out by the varsity's No. 1 hurler, Ted Smith. Lanky Jerry Deml looked good for the Alumni for three frames on the mound. Ron Rohlfing, an all-time great athlete at bel and on the mound for the Cougars, looked awfully as usual at the plate.

All in all, it was a great afternoon of baseball. In fact, southwestern Illinois area fans have had an opportunity to view some really outstanding baseball this spring at Cougar Field. Coach Gary (Bo) Collins' SIUE team is enjoying one of the school's best seasons.

Saturday afternoon, the Cougars swept a two-game series (and now are three-for-four this season) against the powerful Bears of Southwest Missouri State of Springfield, Mo.

Truly, these two teams are so close that they could well end up battling it out for the Midwest Regional NCAA Division II crown and the right to advance to the nationals.

Tomorrow, the Cougars

Tom Henrich

Henrich's making his way into ISU's record books

NORMAL — To say Tom Henrich has rewritten the record books is an understatement.

No, Henrich doesn't take pen and paper and keep records of things, but he does his rewriting with talent — baseball talent.

Henrich is the second baseman for the Illinois State University baseball team and his achievements on the diamond over the past four years speak for themselves.

Henrich is the all-time leader at ISU in times at bat, runs scored, hits, and stolen bases. He also is quickly approaching the record for the most career runs batted in. Through all of the hoopla, Henrich remains modest.

"Having played regularly as a freshman has helped considerably," said Henrich, talking about his many records. "Coach Bass (head coach Duffy Bass) used to not play freshmen much when they first came in, but since I started as a freshman, he has changed and started more first year players."

"I don't think any of the records will stand that long," Henrich said. "It's nice to say that I have all of those records, but there are too many good players on this team for them not to be broken."

When Tom Henrich's name is mentioned in front of Bass, the ISU mentor has nothing but praise for the Granite City native.

"Tom Henrich is one of the best baseball players I've ever coached," Bass said. "He ranks in the top one percent of being the best."

Bass has coached some good ones in his day. Among them are former major league players like the late Lou Piniella, a former ERA champion Lee "Buz" Capra, San Francisco Giant first baseman Dave Bergman and Montreal Expos catcher Tom Wenghaus.

"Tom is just an exceptional baseball talent and has a great baseball mind," commented Bass. "I think every team needs someone to assume a leadership role."

Being a senior, Henrich's days as an ISU baseball player are numbered, but he would like to leave a little bit of himself behind.

"I would like to be remembered by ISU baseball fans as a person who always gave 100 percent on the baseball field," said Henrich, "and who always was ready mentally and physically for every game."

toward the other players and Bass.

"I'm sort of like a communication device between the players and the coach," said Henrich. "I told the guys if they had any problems they could come to me and try to work them out. I think every team needs someone to assume a leadership role."

Research by scholars

Vaughn J. Lindsey, dean of Graduate Studies and Research at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has announced the two winning proposals in this year's Research Scholar Award Competition.

The winners are: "Mississippi Horticultural Exploitation of Upland Settings: An example from the Cahokia Region," submitted by Sidney G. Denny and William T. Woods of the department of anthropology, and "Composition Dates and Chronological Order of Old English Poems," submitted by Janet Duthie Collins of the department of English language and literature.

Each project is awarded up to $7,500 in direct costs in addition to one-third assigned research time for the investigator. The all-university panel which made the selections chose not to name an alternate winning proposal this year.

According to Denny and Woods, prehistoric urbanism in the continental U.S. reached its most elaborate expression at Cahokia, Ill. Extensive archeological research has shown that this sophisticated settlement must have had an extensive support system.

Their project is designed to test a series of related hypotheses pertaining to Mississippian horticultural exploitation of upland support areas, and to establish a basis for projecting ranges of food production capabilities for the Cahokia system.

Professor Collins' study of the individual composition dates and chronological order of Old English poems will center on linguistic changes in the use of competing features from poem to poem. In her work, she will employ statistical analyses and computers.

Her study seeks to make an impact not only on the study of English literature but also on the study of English history, anthropology and archeology.

Coalition to fight tuition tax credits

The Illinois Coalition for Public Education continues to protest President Reagan's proposed tuition tax credits for nonpublic education.

"The tax credits simply would not be in the best interests of the average taxpayer," Coalition President Helen Whalen said Thursday.

"The credits would represent a tremendous loss of revenue to the federal government and could lead to more cuts in public education," she said.

"Tuition-free education, available to all children, is vital to our democracy," she said.

"Tuition tax credits would be at the average citizen's expense, for the benefit of people who have freely chosen an alternative to citizen-supported education."

The coalition represents many Illinois parents, teachers, board members and administrators working together to build support for the public's education system, she said.

Members are the Illinois PTA, Illinois Association of School Administrators, Illinois Federation of Teachers, Illinois Association of School Business Officials, Illinois Community Education, Illinois Association of School Boards, Illinois School Public Relations Association, Illinois Education Association, Illinois Principals Association and the Professional Educators of Illinois.

Drive to fund Lambert USO

The second phase of a $500,000 fund-raising project has been announced by John T. Tucker, president of the James S. McDonnell USO at Lambert Airport. The money will be used to establish a capital operating fund which will be reinvested to provide operating resources for the USO.

Sanford N. McDonnell, chairman of McDonnell Douglas Corp., will be honorary chairman of the drive and Clarence C. Barksdale, chairman of Centerville Bank, will serve as chairman.

Checks are being made payable to the Greater St. Louis USO and mailed to "USO, care of RCGA, 10 Broadway, St. Louis, Mo. 63102."

The USO began operations in September 1981.

On April 1, St. Louis was designated a primary rotation center for military personnel and their families being transferred to and from the Far East and Europe. It is anticipated that the center will serve about 500,000 visitors annually.

The facility is staffed by more than 250 volunteers. Businesses in the area have donated furniture, office supplies, cakes, and snacks, in addition to financial aid.

A burglar entered the Western Auto Store, 2001 Grand Ave., and stole a pellet pistol valued at $42 and a pair of gloves, it was reported at 8:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Firearms instruction

Introduction to firearms will be offered by Belleville Area College for the summer 1982 semester.

Three sections will be offered, each will meet from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on two Saturdays.

The first section will meet June 12 and 19 in Cahokia, and the second June 26 and July 3 in Highland. The third group will meet July 24 and 31 in Cahokia.

Students wanting to enroll in these classes may call the Administration of Justice program, 235-2700, extension 2007.

These classes were listed under night classes in the BAC summer schedule; they should have been listed under "day classes," a spokesman said.

GC serviceman is honored

Terry A. Rollins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins, 5600 Lakeview Drive, was awarded "Plane Captain of the Year" honors for Attack Squadron 38, "The Black Panthers," U.S. Navy. He was presented with a letter of commendation, a plaque of recognition, and a five government bond by his commanding officer, and informed that he has been recommended for the Navy Achievement Award.

The squadron is based at Oceana Naval Air Station, Virginia Beach, Va., and is attached to the nuclear aircraft carrier, the USS Nimitz. It just returned in February from a six month cruise to the Mediterranean Sea and is presently on detached service with the USS Carl Vinson on a cruise to the Caribbean and South America. The squadron was aboard the Nimitz at the time of the airplane crash off the coast of Florida that killed 14 men and injured 45. Terry received a commendation for his freight activities at that time.

Since joining the Navy in 1978, Terry has completed training in the UDT Seals and has seen service in Alaska, Greenland, Italy, Spain, Germany, South America, and the Middle East. In addition to his duties as plane captain, he has completed approximately twelve hours of college courses. After completing service in 1984, he intends to continue studies in optometry.

Ronald Veizer guest speaker

At the April meeting of the Tri-Cities Chapter of Professional Secretaries International, the featured guest speaker was Chief of Police Ronald Veizer. His discussion focused on the Crime Blocker Program, which is a program designed for citizens to aid police in blocking crime. A crime blocker is a citizen trained by police to watch for suspicious happenings or incidents of crime in his neighborhood and also to properly report incidents to police.

In order to become a crime blocker, you must attend a training session for police instruction on the program. After the training session, your police department will send you a Crime Blocker card with your number. When reporting an incident, give your Crime Blocker number instead of your name. You should provide information that will be outlined in your training session. If police need more information, they will call you by phone instead of coming to your residence thus protecting your anonymity. Police maintain a confidential list of Crime Blockers, and no one knows you are a member, the speaker explained.

Any adult resident of the Quad-City area is eligible to join this program. The only qualification is that the citizen take a one-and-a-half hour training course.

To join the Crime Blocker program, call the local

Carnival Friday at Nameoki

Nameoki Parent-Teacher Association will host its annual school carnival, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Friday at the school.

Admission tickets will be sold at the door, starting at 5:30 p.m., or may be obtained in advance at the school on Thursday and Friday morning.

The year's event will feature various booths, including a Sweet Tooth Shop, Indian Trading Post, wheel-of-fortune, Pac-Man maze and a cake walk, among other fun games, according to the sponsors.

Hot dogs, chili dogs, chili, pie, cake, snacks and soft drinks will be served in the cafeteria.

All Nameoki students and their families are being encouraged to come to the supper and carnival, a PTA spokesman said.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Duncan

Duncan-Barnes

The Pentecostal Church of God, 2144 E. 24th St., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carla Barnes and Kenneth Duncan on April 3.

Officiating at the double ring service at 5 o'clock was the Rev. Carl O'Guin.

Parents of the bride are Carl Barnes and Mrs. Hilda Barnes, both of Granite City.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Lola Depoy of Tucson, Ariz. Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the former Miss Barnes chose a long, white gown fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a Queen Anne neckline and short cap sleeves, accented with Chantilly lace.

Her A-line skirt and chapel train was bordered with a lace trim. She wore a wreath of fresh flowers to secure her fingertip veil of bridal illusion, and she held an arrangement of white daisies and blue carnations. Maid of honor, Melinda McCallister was gown in a pastel blue dress and she carried a bouquet similar to the bridal arrangement.

The groom chose John Allison as best man.

Guests were received at a reception held in the home of the bride, where a buffet dinner was served to 60 relatives and friends.

The groom is serving with the U.S. Navy and is stationed in Philadelphia, Pa.

Second child for former residents

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Buckla, 209 Rose Drive, Columbia, Mo., are announcing the birth of their second child, a daughter, on Thursday, April 8, at Boone Hospital Center, Columbia, Mo.

The new arrival weighed seven pounds, eight ounces and has been named Leslie Renee. Her brother is Neil Stuart Buckla and is 28-months old.

The mother is the former Virginia Feldpausch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Feldpausch, Caseyville. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Buckla of Madison.

Opti-Mrs. honor birthday members

The Noon-Day Opti-Mrs. Club met at Charlie's Restaurant, for a luncheon meeting, last week.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Thomas Kirchhoff, Mrs. Ann Little, Mrs. Dorothy McCauley and Mrs. Marge O'Neill.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Jane Giese and the Opti-Mrs. Creed was led by Mrs. Lorain Ranft.

Jane Giese, president, called the meeting to order and 25 members responded to roll call.

Birthday recognition was given to Mesdames Pat Konzen, Golda Fischer, Judy Daitley, Catherine Wittwengel and Ella Odum.

Mrs. Louise Anderson extended an invitation to the Opti-Mrs. to attend the reception in connection with the oratorical contest.

During the social hour card games were played and prizes awarded to Mesdames Lydia Nelson, Georgia Engle, Mildred Branding and Elsie Branding.

Others present were Mesdames Edna Bickel, Virginia John, Catherine Michel, Gladys Pape, Myra Parrish, Bobbie Roach, Elvira Thuermer, Helen Todd, Muriel Veith, Mary Werner.

Evening Guild hosts luncheon

The Evening Guild of St. Peters United Church of Christ, gave a luncheon last week at 12:30 p.m., hosted by Mrs. Melba Tarpoff.

The luncheon was followed by a musical program presented by Mrs. Norma Williams of Ava, Ill. She and her sister sang and played several selections on the dulcimer, harpichord, and other old time instruments, as well as giving their histories and relating many amusing incidents.

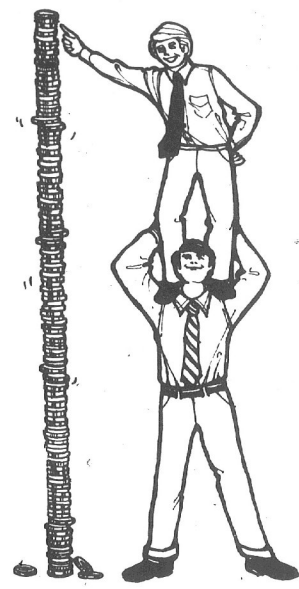

The tables were decorated with pink geraniums, several bouquets used as attendance prizes. The winners were Mrs. Nora Williams, Sandy Dawson, Edna Etheridge and Blanche Alexander.

DANCERS' CONCERT

Downtown House Tour and Craft Fair set

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

A craft fair featuring a variety of creative and handmade articles will be exhibited under the Ralston Purina tent to be located at the 24th Street parkway, between Cleveland Boulevard and Delmar Avenue, during the afternoon of the Spring House Tour, on May 2, sponsored by the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society.

There also will be food and soft drinks available for sale at the site of the high tent from 1 to 6 p.m.

Advance tickets costing $2.50 are available from any DNRS member and will cost $3 on the day of the tour. Each guest will be given a brochure describing the houses and church on the tour itinerary.

"Coffee Break with Greg McCre" on Channel 1 will feature the homes on the tour during the week of April 25. The program will be aired at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, April 26, and Friday, April 30, and at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, April 28.

A home built on what was once known as "silk stocking" row located at 2257 Cleveland Blvd., in 1903, by the late Julius Rosenberg is included in the spring project.

The home is now owned by Jack and Melodee Jenkins. Mr. Rosenberg, at that time, owned Rosenberg's Department Store (now Leader's) at the corner of 18th and State streets. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberg were also the parents of the first girl born in Granite City.

The dwelling had 11 rooms for family use and three attic rooms for servants, a carriage house with accommodations for a horse, cow and one horseless carriage. This structure was replaced in the 1930's by the present garage.

In 1919, Dr. H. P. Reuss and his wife, Ruth, purchased the house and lived there until Dr. Reuss died in 1956.

Mrs. Reuss made some significant changes in the house in 1919. She had a wall removed between the two porches to create an elegant 40 foot living room. The sliding doors were pushed into their respective walls and French doors were installed. Upstairs she had the fireplace taken out of the ladies sitting room and this area became a dressing room.

After the death of Dr.

Reuss his daughters, Betty and Ruth sold the home and it was converted into six apartments.

Fortunately for the present owners, the front staircase was walled off and the servants entrance became the main entrance for the upstairs apartments. When the Jenkins couple purchased the house in 1969, the front hall and staircase were not damaged by anything other than neglect.

One of the first projects was to replaster all the walls, and replace the wiring and plumbing. The stained glass windows were removed in 1917 so Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins contacted Jim and Ann Robertson to design new windows and Jar's Stained Glass installed new ones.

Work still to be done is in the kitchen area and they plan to utilize the three attic rooms as a study, kitchenette and game room.

As in the past the tour includes one downtown church and this year the First Assembly of God Church, 24th Street and Grand Avenue, has granted permission to visit the facility until 5:30 in the evening.

The church is located in the heart of the city and continued effort has been made to resist opportunities to move to the outskirts of the area.

The first building to be erected at that location was in 1921, and since that time there has been a continual expansion and renewal of the facilities. The construction was completed in two phases, the sanctuary was built in 1961 and the education building in 1965.

Properties on Madison Avenue were purchased for parking in 1970 and a new face was added to the Madison Avenue side of the building in 1980.

There is approximately 30,000 square feet of floor space in the present edifice. The church has a congregation of nearly 400 families. It's doctrinal position is Evangelical and Pentecostal with strong emphasis on the family in its programming.

The Happy Day Child Care Development Center serves the Greater Granite City area and each year it has been recognized by the Illinois Department Child Care Services as a model for other such programs to follow.

Other strong programs sanctioned by the church leaders is in the Christian Education, music, youth, men and women departments and a Happy Elders organization.

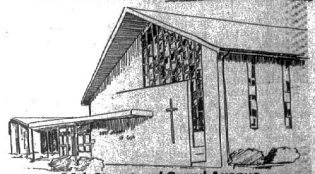

One of the most attractive settings in the church is the sanctuary an prayer room. These areas command sound environment that makes worship a natural experience. The front of the sanctuary is designed with a large baptistry, a table for communion and a choir balcony.

The administration section joins the two buildings and allows for smooth functioning of the daily activities, and was refurbished last year.

Members of the congregation will be present to answer any questions regarding the church and its programs during the visitation time.

Impact of new state constitution includes big debt rise

Press-Record Springfield Bureau — Interest paid by state governments has increased dramatically since the Illinois constitution was changed a decade ago. Last fiscal year, for example, the state paid $188 million for interest alone.

By comparison, in 1971, the last year of the old state constitution, the amount of interest paid was only $8 million.

An overview of spending in the 1970s is included in a report by Comptroller Roland Huria. The comptroller and Auditor General Robert Cronan announced a new method of compiling financial statistics, a method requested of all state governments by bond-rating houses.

"The increased reliance on bonds to finance state government operations has become a fact of life," Huria said. "The state has managed to maintain the desired AA-A bond rating."

The old state constitution, approved in 1970, placed strict limitations on the amount of state debt and required voter approval to authorize large bond sales.

One of the important factors in modernizing the constitution in 1970 was the outdated revenue article.

Delegates to the constitutional convention studied the revenue articles of other states, and reached the conclusion that no satisfactory constitutional limit could be placed on debt because officials everywhere found methods of bypassing the legal limit.

As a result, the new constitution permits the General Assembly to authorize the sale of bonds with approval of three-fifths of the membership. For all practical purposes, any limitation on the debt would be applied under the new plan.

A 1980 report by the comptroller's office summarizes bonded indebtedness this way:

"It is reasonable for the state to sell bonds to pay for public projects which have a long life expectancy. In this way, these individuals in the future who continue to benefit from the project also share in the cost of the project."

"However, the temptation always exists

Recession is real, but uneven

Wall Street Journal — Geoffrey Moore has spent his adult life studying recessions. The one at hand, he thinks, is peculiar.

Moore, director of the Center for International Business Cycle Research at Rutgers University, rates recessions by what he calls the three D's: duration, depth and diffusion.

In duration and depth, the recession is a serious one. But it has become one of the least diffused recessions.

Some sections of the country, some industries and some individuals have suffered greatly. But others have prospered.

The current downturn, if it hasn't already ended, is nine months old. In duration, it approaches the average of 10 months for previous post World War II slumps.

In depth, this recession is more severe. At last report, in February, industrial output had dropped nearly eight percent from its 1981 peak.

The unemployment rate hit nine percent of the work force, equal to the record for post-war joblessness set in 1975. Yet 46.2 percent of American industries, on a seasonally adjusted basis, added workers in February.

The securing of adjustment, based on normal winters, may have overstated the employment-boosting effect of unusually warm weather in February. But even over a longer, six-month period, ended in February, added workers in February.

So the economy isn't in collapse. The long, hard depression in the automotive industry and in housing only partly has spilled over to the rest of American business.

Now, it mainly has been a manufacturing recession. The housing market may have had its greatest effect on the manufacturing of appliances, furniture, lumber and related products.

Labor Department figures for nonfarm payrolls show manufacturing now accounts for fewer than 20 million of the country's 91 million jobs.

The number of manufacturing jobs has fallen by a little more than one million during the recession, about equal to the net loss of jobs. But even in manufacturing, some businesses, notably printing and publishing, have fared better.

Nonhousing construction has suffered far less than housing and overall construction employment has dropped less than three percent since the beginning of the recession.

The extractive industries, especially oil and gas, have added workers. The defense industry has, too, but more slowly.

"Unfortunately," says Norman Robertson, chief economist for Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh, "the defense industry can't spend money as fast as the Pentagon would like it to."

Losses of jobs in manufacturing have hit Michigan and elsewhere in the Midwest, and the Pacific Northwest as well, especially hard.

Another place to suffer badly is Alabama. Since World War II, the state has succeeded remarkably in attracting durable-goods manufacturing. Alabamians still think that bodes well for their economy long-term health.

But for the short term, a study by the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank says, "the larger proportion of durable goods suggest that Alabama's economy is linked more closely to national and international developments than that of most other states."

At 14.7 percent, Alabama's unemployment rate is higher than that of any other state but Michigan's 16 percent.

The District of Columbia and 26 states have unemployment rates higher than the nation's nine percent, but 24 states have lower.

There are fewer people in the Great Plains states than in some other sections of the country, but nearly all of them seem to be working.

Kansas' unemployment rate is a relatively trifling 5.1 percent; Nebraska's 5.8 percent; South Dakota's 6.1 percent; North Dakota's 6.4 percent.

In part, those low unemployment rates reflect the

Extend life of 'drug' grand jury

To the Editor:
The Madison County grand jury, which was reappointed in January, is being commended for their unprecedented investigation of the drug problem in our county schools.

Much time has been spent in educating the current grand jury members so that they can be effective.

At the end of May, this jury will be excused under State's Attorney Don Weber's request for an extension is honored.

In our opinion, taxpayers' money and precious time would be wasted in covering the same ground with a new jury.

We appeal to Chief Circuit Judge Joseph Barr to help us in our fight against drugs by extending Weber's request.

The pressure is on the drug community. Can we afford to take this pressure off the jury? The time would take to select and educate a new grand jury?

Readers, if you share our concern, we think you should express your opinion by calling Chief Judge Barr at 692-4767.

distance service to local residents.

The Wirth bill gives AT&T competitors a price break of up to 50 percent. That makes AT&T the only long-distance company that would pay the real cost of connecting to account all the other cities in Illinois.

Illinois Bell would then have to make up the difference for all the other cities it would have to serve.

When you take into account all the other cities in Illinois, you begin to realize that Illinois Bell would be denied a price break.

Under the Wirth bill, Illinois Bell receives no protection against competition in the Granite City area.

Anyone conversant with the facts knows that even telephone rates are going to go up. Over the last decade, events already put in motion by regulatory decisions to encourage competition have been driving all telephone prices toward actual costs of providing those services.

We have proven that we can keep telephone rates at or below the rates of other telephone companies.

But legislation proposed by Rep. Timothy Wirth (D-Colo.) which is now pending before the House Commerce Committee in Washington, D.C., would scuttle our good efforts and cause Granite City area telephone users to subsidize services they can't even get.

As chairman of the House Telecommunications Subcommittee, Rep. Wirth has managed to push his ill-conceived and self-serving piece of legislation out of the subcommittee he chairs and into the full House Commerce Committee in spite of the fact that it would cost Granite City residents — and residents of every town of similar size across the country — more money than they need to spend on their telephone bill.

Here's how HR 5158 (Rep. Wirth's bill) would add useless extra charges to your telephone bill:

Oppose Girl Scouts' building

To the Editor:
The River Bluffs Girls Scout Council recently began construction of a new $400,000 Council building in the Ginger Creek area of Edwardsville.

As Girl Scout volunteers interested in better service to girls in our area, we wonder how this new building will help in our goals for them.

Will they have a more rewarding scout experience because a paid staff has more office space in plush surroundings or will they have an order equipment from Edwardsville? We think not.

Perhaps it is time that the River Bluffs staff understands that it is they who work for us, not we for them.

spend directly to benefit girls — improve camps, help us with transportation to get our troops there and other places of interest, troop programs and in raising the financial burden of the volunteer.

Don't say that this building is meant to do these things. People serve, not buildings. Come to us with your programs and benefits. We don't need you sitting pretty in your new building.

Come out where we are with the girls who are out, but because many of them are so close to us, they can't come out.

How can we justify asking them to sell more cookies, ask parents to make annual contributions, as we continue to cry for troop funds but build new buildings?

In economic times such as these, we all learn to "make do" with what we have. River Bluffs leaves us wondering if our own economic support has been wise.

We believe that it is not too late to reconsider this decision to build a new building.

The council staff should show us that it supports our efforts for the girls. It should help us with our goals for them, and use the money to benefit them instead.

unevenness of the agricultural depression.

Strengthening livestock prices have helped the great Plains, and its food-processing industries are "recession-resistant," says Clifton B. Luttrell, an economist at the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank.

Increased oil and gas operations have helped the area, too.

Even those farmers whose businesses are poor are slow to fire workers, Luttrell observes. "You don't rush to lay off farm workers," he says, "especially if they happen to be your sons."

Farm income has fallen from its peak in 1979, but there's a small chance that this year will become no worse than last. Farmers' earnings "will be determined chiefly by returns on crops to be planted later this year," Luttrell says.

Meanwhile, however, the Agriculture Department foresees "no increase" in net farm income this year. Private agricultural analysts think a decline of $1 billion to $3 billion from 1981's $22 billion or so is probable.

Farmers in the worst trouble are those who borrowed heavily to buy more land when land prices were high. "They helped to push up land prices," he says, "and now that prices are adjusting, the farmers who were overleveraged are really hurting."

As the recession fades, farm and other sectors of the economy will respond in different ways.

Over the long term, for example, the Commerce Department believes, the Great Plains states will increase their total personal income by somewhat less than the 3.3 percent average yearly increase expected for the country as a whole between now and 2000.

But Alabama, now badly depressed, may surpass the national average along with the rest of the Southeast.

50 Years Ago

April 19, 1932
The city council last night took cognizance of the increased traffic hazards caused by the roller skating pad which has gripped the younger element for the past few weeks and passed a resolution which authorizes the Police Department, together with the Police Department, to restrict night skating to segregated paved streets on certain nights. The various aldermen expressed the opinion that roller skating is only a fad, and will soon blow out, but because many of the youngsters are so close to us, they can't come out, but because many of them are so close to us, they can't come out.

25 Years Ago

April 25, 1957
"It's a dream, but if we don't try, we may never have a chance again," Mayor Davis told Granite City council members Monday night when a resolution was presented to them to seek 50 percent state financial assistance for construction of a bypass at the 20th street railroad crossing. In the same resolution, the city is seeking the same percentage (50) state aid for widening 20th street and Missouri avenue (U.S. Highway 67) from Madison avenue west to the city limits. Several aldermen said it was unlikely the state highway department would go along with the request, since surveys have been made for possible rerouting of Highway 67 along the riverfront, skirting Granite City.

10 Years Ago

Washington observers said today that the Federal Aviation Administration is preparing to announce in May or June a final decision favoring a Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., site for a major new bi-state metropolitan airport. Federal environmental authorities currently are preparing a report that says it would have the least environmental impact when compared to two proposed Missouri sites.

Why a site in Ginger Creek?

To the Editor:
After the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council's board of directors announced its decision to build a new office in Edwardsville's Ginger Creek area, grassroots opposition by volunteers in the council has mushroomed.

We feel that the board owes us answers to many questions.

Included are:

1. Why did we receive funds for this building when we perennially hear how little money is available to the council?
2. Why was Ginger Creek — an exclusive area, to say the least — chosen? Other land on Groh Road had been donated to the council.
3. Why were the bids for construction on a "by invitation only" basis, when we're all looking for the most value for our money?
4. As Girl Scout members continue to decline, what is the need for a larger building?

Why the Girl Scouts built their present building, registered girls numbered 12,000. That number has now dwindled to 9,500.

Bike riders to raise funds

Wrecking ball razes former jail, gives preservationists a headache

Edwardsville Intelligencer

With the third swing, it crumbled.

The old Madison County Jail had survived more than a century of battering by the elements, including a tornado in 1981.

It had survived the destructive efforts of countless numbers of criminals, vandals and arson attempts.

But on this day, April 21, 1982, the south wall of the historic building could stand the crashing weight of several tons only twice.

The third time the wrecking ball made the wide arc, it smashed through the three layers of brick and sent dust and debris flying into the air, as if an explosion had ripped into the building's second story.

It was the beginning of the end for the embattled jail and sheriff's residence.

The demolition of the 111-year-old jail began shortly after 9 a.m., about an hour before it was supposed to.

The crew from Kamadulski Excavating & Grading Co. of Granite City heaved the huge wrecking ball into the air and began a job it expected to take several days to complete.

The early starting time had not felled protesters, however, as members of the Goshen Preservation Alliance arrived in time to place Rest In Peace signs on the wrought-iron fence in front.

As the demolition continued and large masses of brick and mortar fell to the ground, a crowd gathered on both sides of Main Street to watch the destruction.

Clouds of dust rose quickly from the rubble, covering onlookers as well as adjacent buildings and parked cars with a fine, gritty layer.

One downtown merchant complained of the dirt and asked that the jail be "hosed down" with water but was told that would not be possible.

It was a little less than two years ago — the summer of 1980 — when it appeared that those people wanting to save the jail had won a stunning victory.

At that time, the Madison County Board voted to lease the property to the GPA for three years at $1 per year.

The intent was to give the preservationists a chance to raise money and restore the building to a usable condition.

But the optimistic rhetoric had little chance to become reality, as the board later reversed itself and voted to tear the building down.

A lengthy court battle ensued, with the GPA and the city of Edwardsville fighting to keep the county from carrying out its vow of destruction.

At times, it appeared that the legal system would step in and do what negotiations could not.

The courts awarded a preservation restriction to the city after officials had declared the jail a local landmark.

Stymied again, members of the county's Buildings Committee began to apply pressure to Edwardsville officials in an attempt to change their views.

County officials threatened to move a proposed administration building out of the downtown area unless the city dropped its support for preservation.

The pressure apparently worked, as the City Council eventually relinquished its hold on the jail and sheriff's residence.

That action cleared the way for the demolition.

Traffic was disrupted very little by the activity on Main Street as both lanes were kept open and passable.

However, orders had been issued by the sheriff's department to arrest anyone who ventured onto the jail property unless they had official business there.

Officials emphasized that all material from the wreckage of the jail is the property of Kamadulski.

No arrests or disturbances were reported.

Once the demolition is completed, a small park is scheduled to be constructed on the front part of the site.

County officials said that parking for the handicapped will be built on the area to the back of the property.

The jail, last used as a house of prisoners in 1979, was listed on the National Register of Historic Places. It was the oldest jail in continuous use in the state at that time.

Benefit dance for dystrophy

Benji Thompson is like thousands of other children afflicted with muscular dystrophy, the most common crippling disease of children.

The 10-year-old underwent surgery in February to release his muscles from his legs and was fitted with new leg braces. But, by the time he reaches adolescence, he is not expected to be able to walk.

Gamma Sigma Sigma, a national service society on the SIUE campus, is sponsoring a dance Friday night to benefit Benji and thousands of other children.

The dance will be held at the American Legion Hall in Edwardsville. Tickets are $5 and include refreshments and music.

Music will be provided by "Keep the Change," a contemporary local band.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

JAIL DEMOLITION last week as viewed from Main Street, Edwardsville, near the Madison County Courthouse. The former county jail and sheriff residence structure was started in 1869 and remained in use from the early 1870s to 1979. Preservationists sought to perpetuate it, while most county officials felt the prime downtown site could be put to better use.

Spring musical 'Shenandoah' at South

The music and speech departments of Granite City High School South will be presenting this year's spring musical, "Shenandoah" in the South auditorium Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

"Shenandoah" is the story of a strong-willed Virginia farmer and his unsuccessful attempt to keep his farm and family neutral during the Civil War.

Among other adventures facing the Anderson family, the Confederacy tries to conscript his sons. The youngest son is taken prisoner, and deserters ransack the farm. Through all the hardships, the family maintains its zeal for living and its love of peace.

Leading roles are played by Bill Kestrovich as Charlie

Anderson; the six sons are students Kelly Stotz, Mark Smith, John Rudege, Randy Dunn, Adam Schneider and Don Fisher. Dynette Shrader will be playing the part of Anderson's daughter, Ruth Galtner has the part of the family's daughter-in-law.

Ron Pennell, chairman of the South speech department, will be making a guest appearance as the Rev. Byrd.

Others in the cast are John Abrams, Beth Bohman, Ann Corbett, Joe Donaldson, Lisa Douglas, Pam Dubnick, Steve Elmore, Marsha Fisher, Jody Gravelle, Susan Gray, Deron Griffin.

Brian Harris, Jeff Hecht, Bruce Holt, Beth Kirkover, Bart Lane, Randy Markarian, Ralph McKinney.

Beth McNeilly, Todd Miller, Keith Payne, Melissa Pennell, Anita Rojas.

Annette Rojas, Bill Russell, Carla Schutzenhofer, Cheryl Siler, Cheryl Thomason, Karen Thomason, Kathy Toussaint, Anne Voyles, David Williams, Frank Woods and Kellye Worster.

The play is directed by Beverly Scroggins of the speech department and choreographed by Margaret Pennell.

Mary Ann Bright of the music department is the musical director. The pit orchestra will be conducted by Joseph Owen, music consultant for the school district and the South band director.

SHENANDOAH MUSICAL COMING. The love interests in Granite City High School South's spring musical "Shenandoah" will be played by (left to right) Mark Smith, Ruth Galtner, Dynette Shrader and Mike Moore. The play will be performed this Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

WE'LL TAKE CARE OF YOUR CAR UNTIL 1987!

DEAR NEW CAR BUYER:

There have been many good opportunities to buy new cars in the past couple of years — but the 3-WAY PROTECTION PLAN offered by Chrysler Corporation through May 31 is the most solid expression of confidence and value that I've ever seen.

If you buy any new Chrysler-made passenger car during May, Chrysler will furnish you with a 5 YEAR/50,000 MI. power train protection plan FREE OF CHARGE, and a 5 YEAR/50,000 MI. protection plan against over-panel rust through. In addition, you may bring your new car to our dealership for the next five years, until 1987, and we will perform all scheduled maintenance on the vehicle without charge to you. Come in and we'll furnish you with the terms and conditions in writing.

Here at Granite Chrysler, we've got the qualified personnel to serve you — Nick Huniak in charge of sales, Phil Reballo in service, and Clyde Murphy in parts. We've got 30 years experience in the local market and the BEST QUALITY cars. I've ever seen.

Get your new Chrysler or Plymouth from us and we'll take care of it for the next five years.

Sincerely,
H. J. "Mac" Hanson
President, Granite Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc.

'Y' summer day camp

The Tri-City Area YMCA has announced that registration for summer day camp is open, and that persons wishing to enroll made so at the "Y," 2001 Edison Ave., Granite City, 676-7200.

Camp begins June 7 and meets Monday through Friday from 8:15 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There will be a total of 11 one-week sessions throughout the summer. Campers, ages six through 11, may attend.

Transportation is provided. A YMCA day camp bus will make several stops throughout the local area.

Activities will include swimming, crafts, sports, games, nature lore, field trips and cookouts, and "overnights" at the "Y" Camp. Campers receive a T-shirt, and a cold drink for lunch each day.

The cost per week is $12.50 for YMCA members and $36 for non-members. Executive Director David L. Fernie said.

Charge GC man in county jail

A Granite City warrant charging Lonnie Turner, 28, of burglary, was served last week at the Madison County jail, Police said.

Turner was being held on other charges.

The local warrant alleged Turner burglarized the Lindner family's residence in the 2800 block of Cayuga Street March 28, when he stole $2,800 worth of jewelry. Turner was being held on other charges.

Turner was one of two persons arrested April 12 by St. Charles County police in the Madison County sheriff's department at the Land of Legends, Route 3 and Interstate 270.

In the room occupied by two men were numerous items of clothing, a stereo with an estimated value in excess of $5,000. Included were shotguns, numerous items of jewelry, a tape recorder and a stereo.

Turner and the other man gave various addresses and around the Granite City area, authorities said.

At the time of their arrest, each was charged with two counts of unlawful use of a weapon, theft by possession and two counts of residential burglary.

Bonds of $50,000 were set on each man and they were held in the county jail. Hold orders also were filed by authorities in Jersey County, Ill., and Jefferson County, Mo., who seek a question them on other charges.

Rape charges against man, 29

Danny Joe Dawson, 29, of 2421 Missouri Ave., was arrested last week on two counts of rape and was held in the Madison County jail pending the posting of $100,000 bond. Complaints were signed by Granite City police.

Dawson was linked to April 4 assaults in the rural area and in a residence on Missouri Avenue, Belleville girl, 18, was treated at a hospital.

She and two of her girlfriends were visiting for a short time at a residence, and the others were gone when she returned from a party at a local store. A family member declined to pick her up, and a man there offered to take her as far as Cahokia.

Instead, the man stopped on a "back road" and the girl was raped. She was allegedly, he then forced her to return to her home, where she was raped again amid repeated threats of harm.

GRANITE CITY (ILL.) PRESS-RECORD, Monday, April 26, 1982—19

Notice is given to Belva Hiseot and Virginia I. Hiseot, the decedent that an order was entered by the court on March 30, 1982, admitting the will to probate. Within 42 days after the effective date of the original order of admission you may file a petition to set aside the will to require proof of the will by testimony of the witnesses to the will in open court or otherwise, as provided in Section 6-21 of the Probate Act (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 110, 6-21) to contest the validity of the will by filing a petition within six months after admission of the will to probate.

The estate will be administered without court supervision, unless under Section 28-4 (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 110, 28-4) the Probate Act any interested person terminates in dispute the administration of the estate by filing a petition to terminate the administration.

Cards of Thanks

PERHAPS YOU sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair, perhaps you sent a mass, memorial or funeral prayer, if so, we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say, perhaps you were not there at all, just said a prayer or thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts we express a heartfelt thank you to whatever the part. The Family of DON NEMETH.

THE FAMILY OF JOSEPH LUZENSKE would like to express their sincere appreciation to all the friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in the loss of our Uncle Joe. Our special thanks to Father Guy Perret and Mercer Murphy.

WE WANT to express our sincere appreciation to all my friends for the kindness and sympathy extended to us at the death of our beloved husband and father, HOWARD PAINTER. Also, our deepest thanks for the beautiful floral tributes. — Wife Lucille and Children.

Advance consent for search of lockers?

It has not yet been discussed by the Granite City Board of Education, but Board Member David Partney said Friday he will propose a drug search consent form. It would be signed by students before they are assigned a school locker.

Partney said he hopes to either have such a plan adopted by the board, or have legal research conducted to determine whether advance consent is feasible.

Partney and a number of Madison County high school students were questioned Thursday by a county grand jury which had interviewed other students earlier this month. The jury is seeking to curb drug abuse in and near schools.

His proposal is to make consent to future searches a condition of the acceptance of a locker assignment.

He said he apparently was called before the jury because of his long-standing concern over the prevalence of illegal drugs in school areas.

Partney said he believes it might be wise for five or six school districts to jointly hire a dog and hire a man to check lockers on a regular basis.

With Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand standing by to issue search warrants, county authorities used three specially-trained dogs last Wednesday as they searched locker areas at Alton, Wood River and Edwardsville high schools.

Numerous "hits" were indicated by the dogs but no marijuana was found inside student lockers. Two pipe "bongs" are said to have been located.

State's Attorney Don W. Weber said he has enough confidence in the dogs' drug-detecting ability to believe that the lockers which attracted the dogs at one time contained either drugs or clothing with a drug scent.

George "Halley," principal of Edwardsville High School, said Thursday that "through implication," 233 lockers were zeroed in on as a target. That bothers me.

"No drugs were found at EHS. I think this opens the highly of our students," he said. He thinks drug abuse is not widespread there despite the impression that the grand jury inquiry might convey.

Others disagree, saying there is heavy drug use but that the students were alert.

enough not to leave any drugs in lockers.

Some say there has been a big increase in drug abuse over the last two or three years, and voice wonderment and disappointment that there was no such crackdown in the late 1970s, 1980 or 1981.

Weber said, "I'm happy with the way the investigation went. If you don't find anything, that means it's been cleaned out. If it's cleaned out, we're happy."

"The investigation evidently has forced some students underground," discouraged the open use of drugs," Weber said, adding that this was one of the goals of the investigation. The probe initially was suggested by grand jurors.

There is some dispute over how closely the investigation itself can be linked to two April drug arrests and indictments. However, it is an unavoidable connection due to the fact that tipsters are aware of the recent anti-drug emphasis.

One of those charged, Louis Odell Sinder, 17, of 135 (near) Briarcliff, had $655 in his possession when picked up by Granite City police at 6:35 p.m. Friday.

He was charged with possession and delivery, he was transferred at 7:35 p.m. to the Madison County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Allege GC man impersonates police officer

Ivica P. Sajfar, 36, of 2522 Hemlock Ave., was charged with impersonating a police officer, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct at 2:45 a.m. Friday in the parking area at Charlie's Restaurant, 3120 Nameoki Road.

Two off-duty Granite City police officers were advised by an employee that a man was at the restaurant's kitchen door making inquiries about a vehicle parked in the lot. The man allegedly had shown the employee a police badge.

The officers found Sajfar in the lot, identified themselves and asked him for police identification. He allegedly displayed a special police badge and a card from the International Association of Investigators and Special Police which expired in 1972. He declined to further identify himself until a uniformed officer arrived, the police contended.

A squad car was dispatched and the man again was questioned. At this point, he allegedly refused to get out of his auto and pushed and shoved officers. Force was used to handcuff him.

In Sajfar's car, officers allegedly found an unloaded .22-caliber pistol, similar to a starting gun, in a holster on the dashboard; handcuffs in a case; a leather wallet; and a red rotating light in the rear seat.

FOUR CHARGES FILED

Stephen G. Presley, 25, of 2725 Buxton Ave., was arrested at 4:15 p.m. Saturday in that block for driving with a revoked license. Also, for allegedly running from the scene prior to being captured by a policeman, he was booked for resisting arrest. It was further alleged that Presley drove recklessly and used a revoked license at 11 p.m. Friday in the 2700 block of Washington Avenue.

News notes

Belleville Area College expects to end the fiscal year with a fund balance of more than $800,000.

A survey shows Illinois has fewer government employees than most states. The national average is 488 (per 10,000 population) and Illinois has 446 in state and local government.

The latest poll shows Adlai Stevenson lost the 1956 election by 100,000 votes. The national average is 488 (per 10,000 population) and Illinois has 446 in state and local government.

Salary hikes slated for Madison County employees in 1983 could force budget cuts of up to 21 percent in some departments if a full work force is maintained, finance committee members said Thursday.

County voters will decide Nov. 2 whether to increase the present county highway tax rate limit of 10 cents per $100 assessment. The ballot figure has not been set but will be 20 cents or less. Also voted on by the public will be funding for the county's nursing home and sheltered care home.

Consumer prices fell 0.3 percent last month, the biggest drop in 29 years. The annual rate would be 3.3 percent deflation. The cost-of-living index had not fallen since 1965.

Several hundred educators from this metropolitan area and Southern Illinois will attend a conference Thursday at SIUE on "excellence in the arts."

The Granite City school board's policy committee will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the board office.

Two days after the Illinois House approved teacher collective bargaining, it voted Thursday against allowing teachers to organize and strike. The 87-60 tally was two votes short of a majority.

Illinois voters will decide Nov. 2 whether to let judges deny bail to habitual criminals facing life terms.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council executive advisory committee voted last week for mandatory inspections of auto exhaust emissions here.

Madison citizens to push for elected commissioners

Madison Concerned Citizens discussed the drive for an elected utility commission at their monthly meeting last week at the Polish Hall in Madison.

Chairman Tom Voloski turned the meeting over to the committee that represented the Concerned Citizens as well as other citizens of Madison at the Illinois Power Co. rate in-house hearing April 16 in Springfield.

Ad Endicott thanked those who helped gather 3,875 signatures on petitions opposing rate hikes.

Bill Steiner read a letter he received from Chief Clerk Rose C. Claiborne acknowledging that the local group has petitioned for leave to intervene in the rate case.

"This means that through the Illinois Commerce Commission, the Madison Concerned Citizens can request a town hearing concerning the proposed electric and gas rate hikes when hearing dates are arranged," Steiner said.

"Senate Bill 1313 would allow for officials of the Commerce Commission to be elected rather than appointed. I urge citizens to write to Senator Philip Rock to ask that this bill reach the Senate floor."

Guest speaker was Tim

Early of the Illinois Public Interest Research Group. Earley voiced his surprise at the large local turnout at the hearing in Springfield.

He asked the citizens write to Rep. Sam Wolf, Rep. Everett Steele, Rep. Jim McPike and Sen. Sam Vadalabene to urge passage of Senate Bill 1313 approval. He said representatives should meet with citizens to discuss the bill.

Voloski announced that Wolf, Steele, McPike and Vadalabene will be invited to the 7:30 p.m. May 17 meeting.

Earley handed out circulars concerning the Illinois Public Action Council's lobbying day on May 12 at 10 a.m. in Springfield.

"This meeting is to demand action from legislators and to meet face-to-face the problems and issues that concern us as citizens of Illinois," he commented.

HELD ON MULTIPLE CHARGES

Venice police are holding a 25-year-old Venice man pending a court appearance today on charges of being in possession of a switchblade knife and a 6-inch fishing knife, plus possible possession of more than 2.5 grams of cannabis allegedly found in a plastic bag. Police made the arrest at 4:15 a.m. today. The events leading to his arrest began when police found the man's auto abandoned in the middle of Broadway and Illinois Road. The man was arrested in front of the Robin's Nest Tavern.

ARREST 11-YEAR-OLD

LeRae Huff, 17, of 219 Sunny Shores, Mitchell, was charged with battery and with trespassing on the grounds of the GCHS South campus at 12:20 p.m. Friday. A student, Vickie Donohue, was cut on the right ear and suffered bruises about the lips and right eye.

Driverless car hits mobile home

John M. Gilley, 25, of 2001 Hildebrand Ave., Madison area, was charged with damage to property last week following an accident in which his auto allegedly struck front porch steps of a mobile home at 2107 Louisa Ave.

Bill Hagen reported a vehicle had struck his trailer home. While approaching the scene, an officer saw a man walking on the street; the man disappeared behind a house.

Gilley was located and offered a version of the incident. He later allegedly changed the story and said that while he was driving east on Highway 162, his auto struck curbing at Nameoki Road and he fell from the vehicle.

He last saw the auto as it was going into a field at Highway 162 and East 23rd Street, it was related; he accompanied the officer to that point.

The car was found against the steps of Hagen's mobile home with its engine running, and Gilley was arrested.

During the booking process, Gilley complained of pains, caused by the fall. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated for cuts to both knees and his back.

Returned to jail, he pleaded innocent in a court appearance at 3:15 p.m. Thursday and was released on a recognizance bond.

DRIVING CHARGE

Donald Harris, 27, of the 4400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs after police stopped his auto at 1:15 a.m. Saturday on Route 157 in Cahokia.

John Sykes, 43, dies Sunday

John C. Sykes, 43, of Alton, a crane man at Granite City Steel, died at 10:35 p.m. Sunday, April 25, 1982, at Christian Hospital Northeast in St. Louis County. He had been ill three weeks and was hospitalized for the same length of time.

Mr. Sykes had been employed at the local steel plant for the past 23 years. He was born in Walkerville, Ill., and had resided in Alton for many years.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Alton.

Among the survivors are his widow, Mrs. Madeleine Sykes; two daughters, Misses Aune Lee and Carol Ann Sykes, both of Alton; and a sister, Mrs. Darlene Ethel of Roswood Heights, Ill.

Friends may call between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 27, at the Smith Funeral Home, 2521 Edwards St., Alton. Services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Church in Alton. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery at Greenfield, Ill.

STOLEN JEEP BURNED

A Jeep belonging to Mark Durr of Alton, stolen last week from the Granite City Steel blast furnace construction parking area on Edwardsville Road, was recovered the same day by a Madison County sheriff deputy on Kirsh Road in Jarvis Township. The vehicle had been burned.

TRESPASSING CHARGE

Richard Lovins, 2382 O'Hare Ave., was charged with trespassing after it was alleged at 12:35 a.m. Saturday that two autos of Phillip Carpenter, 3223 Maryville Road, had been entered while they were parked in a lot there. Lovins was freed at 2:15 a.m. on $55 bail.

Sorry Linda, that's life

By ROBIN WELLES

HOLLYWOOD — In a recent column the writer rated some of the country's best female singers.

This brought forth an editorial dissent from Fred R. Van Note of West Long Branch, N.J. He wrote:

"In a recent article in the local paper, there was an article written by you called 'Super Barbra Streisand Has Some Real Super Fans.'"

"In this article you said of Linda Ronstadt, 'She might get Jerry Brown's vote.'

"Being a Linda Ronstadt fan I am appalled by this statement. I am sure she, Miss Ronstadt, got more than Mr. Brown's vote when she was most popular singer in 1976, and was one of the 10 best coiffured women in 1978, plus the fact that she was asked to perform at the Inaugural Special at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., for President Carter.

"Not to mention her latest achievement playing the role of Mabel in the Broadway show 'Pirates of Penzance.'

Well, as they say, fame is fleeting.

There is no doubt that once upon a time Linda Ronstadt was one of the hottest rock singers around. And she still has many, many fans.

However, Billboard Magazine recently announced its list of top female singers for 1981, based on record sales.

The top 10, in order were Pat Benatar, Kim Carnes (a real surprise), Barbara Streisand (year after year, she's right up there), Diana Ross, Juice Newton (a new singer with tremendous talent), Sheena Easton, Anne Murray, Dolly Parton (remember when she was nothing more than a lil' ol' country singer?), Teena Marie and Stephanie Mills.

There are a lot of new names in there, which shows how fast things change in the music business.

Linda Ronstadt? She finished 23rd.

CONWAY TWITTY —

Southern Comfort (Elektra) — If you can remember way, way back, Twitty was once a rock 'n' roll singer. But he survived that phase to become one of the best country singers around. Nothing complicated about Twitty: "I am very fortunate to be doing something I love to do and making a living at it." How many of us can say that?

JANIS JOPLIN — Farewell Song (Columbia) — The fantastically gifted rock singer inflamed those restless crowds in the 1960s. A Joplin performance was something to behold. But drugs and pressure killed her fast. This is a superb LP, the sound enhanced and cleaned up by electronic wizardry. Janis is caught here with some things she did with Big Brother. It's pure magic.

- What was Jack's (John Ritter) special talent on ABC's "Three's Company"?
- The shipwrecked crew of "Gilligan's Island" landed on a tropical desert isle. Its stars included Bob Denver, Alan Hale, and Jim Backus. The seven stranded castaways journeyed to this island aboard what ship?
- Redd Foxx, alias junkman Fred G. Sanford on the comedy series, "Sanford and Son," was always having verbal assaults against Lamont's Aunt Esther. On the show, what was Esther's drinking husband's name?
- MacLean Stevenson played as the original commanding officer of the 4077th outfit on the Korean War setting of the series, "MASH." What was MacLean's name on the show?
- On "Barney Miller" (starring Hal Linden) the zany crew of detectives was headquarters for which precinct?
- What was the last name of the oil executive who handled Jed Clampett's fields of oil on "The Beverly Hillbillies"? Clue: Pearl was very sweet on this big company executive.

How Kenny Rogers helps the hungry

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD — "I could give $1 million to famine relief, and it would have almost no effect," Kenny Rogers quite rightly said.

So, he continued, he and his wife, Marianne Gordon, are going to put $1 million in trust with income to provide an annual cash award for persons who've done the most to alleviate world hunger.

Rogers is anything but hungry these days.

He owns a mansion, helicopters (plural), honors won in the music world and lot of other goodies including his own production company which is currently filming "Six Pack," his first starring picture for theatrical release.

The distributor will be 20th Century-Fox.

On location near Atlanta, Ga., Rogers was being coaxed to sing a song or so in the lightweight movie which casts him as a stock car racer surrounded by delightful kids. Six, in fact.

But Rogers was resisting such blandishments, determined to prove his star quality without the aid of his singing voice.

"But," said associate producer Jack Bernstein wistfully, "I'm still hoping he will at least sing a song over the titles."

Has a song to go over the titles been written?

"No, not yet," Bernstein admitted.

During the lunch break, Rogers was resting in his mobile dressing room where he revealed plans for the famine-relief trust fund.

"We're, in the stages of developing this thing," he said.

A while back, urged by a friend to do 15 benefit shows for famine relief, Rogers declined.

"Harry Chapin is the most unselfish person I know," said Kenny. "He's done at least 100 concerts for famine relief."

"But, when he asked me to do 15, I said I couldn't, because of my schedule, that would kill me."

"So I told him, 'Harry, I love you for what you are, but instead of doing 15 small shows with you, what I'll do is take the proceeds from two of my shows and give them to your charity.'"

"I did that, but in talking to him I felt so guilty because I couldn't give the time that he gave that I asked, 'Harry, if I gave a million to combat world hunger, what would you do with it?'"

"He went back and talked with some experts, and basically we all agreed that $1 million would do nothing to solve the problem of half a billion people who are starving to death."

"So what I decided to do was put $1 million in a bank account with the interest to pay for awards each year for the 10 people who'd done the most to relieve world hunger."

"Our idea is to generate some activity in the field and get people interested..."

Rogers hasn't visited food-short areas of the world, but in April he intends to go to stricken territory between Rhodesia and South Africa to see the results of famine. Then, next year, he hopes to go to Biafra.

Though Mrs. Rogers is an actress whom Kenny met, on the set of "Haw, Hie's not in 'Six Pack,'" however this doesn't foreclose their acting together at some future time.

"Generally," Kenny said, "husband and wife teams don't do well on the screen. In a picture, I think you need the element of someone you don't know working opposite you."

"That doesn't mean, though, that Marianne can't be in my movies. 'I also happen to think it's distracting to see... I mean, the audience keeps thinking, 'That's his wife, isn't it?'"

"I'm a real fanatic about doing things correctly."

Asked whether he'd be more nervous kissing Marianne or a comparative stranger in front of a camera, Rogers answered readily. "The camera doesn't bother me. But there's an awkwardness about movie kisses. It takes eight hours to do one, and after 30 minutes your lips are bruised and you're Oded on Bina-ca."

"Kissing loses a certain amount of magic after while."

As for kissing Marianne under professional direction, "I think I should certainly give it a try sometime but I think you need the tension that comes from working with someone you don't know too well."

Rogers has heard for years, of course, that working with children is death for an actor, yet he went in to "Six Pack" high heartedly.

"I've always been told that kids will steal a picture," he said, "but I don't care. I don't care who gets it, just so we have a picture to steal."

"I relate well with the kids. I'm at my best when I'm playing off someone else."

A black and white line drawing illustration of a sewing machine at the top right, with a piece of fabric featuring a small floral pattern being sewn. Below the machine, there is a tray containing several spools of thread and a pair of scissors. A large, dark, textured fabric strip runs diagonally across the lower left portion of the image. The entire advertisement is framed by a decorative, jagged border.
